As an added treat, Mr. Bell then favoured with a number of musical selections on the mouth organ. Everyone enjoyed Mr. Bell's visit. Mr. Rutledge voiced the appreciation of the Club and presented him with a small gift.

A short business period followed. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Mrs. Johns. Mrs. Broadworth thanked Vice-President Mrs. Fox for carrying on in her place while she was absent. She also thanked the nominating committee for a chore well done and read a prayer for the officers for the new year.

Northbrook Man Killed In Crash

A 33-year-old Northbrook man was fatally injured in a two-car crash on Highway 41 early Monday morning.

Driver of the northbound car, Carl Newton, was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner W. S. Paterson of Kingston, after his car was in a head-on collision with a southbound vehicle driven by Jack Libby of R.R. 6, Napanee. Mr. Newton was the only occupant of his vehicle. A passenger in the Libby car, Kenneth Wagner, was taken to the Kingston General Hospital with serious injuries. Mr. Libby was uninjured.

The accident occurred at the approach of a curve 1.5 miles north of the junction of Highways 7 and 41. Both vehicles were completely demolished in the crash.

AMBASSADOR VISITS CHEESE FACTORY

Attending the World Trade Conference in Switzerland gave Canadian Ambassador James A. Roberts his first taste of Eldorado Gold Brand cheddar cheese. He enjoyed it so much that on his return to Toronto, Mr. Roberts wrote a letter to the factory requesting that some cheese be mailed to his home.

About a week ago, Mr. Roberts, accompanied by his wife and a friend from England, visited the factory on Highway 62 north of here at Eldorado.

Cheesemaker Ivan Sine welcomed the guests and gave them a tour of the factory where they saw Canadian cheddar cheese being processed.

Secretary of the Eldorado Cheese and Butter Co-operative, Francis Tobin, said a large quantity of cheese from the Eldorado plant was sent to the Conference.

RESOURCES MANAGER JOHN WUITE TRANSFERRED

Resources Manager with the Moira River Conservation Authority for the past four years, John Wuite has been transferred to the Sudbury area where he will work in the same capacity in that district.

He will work with the Junction Creek and Whitson Creek Conservation Authorities there, his new duties commencing as of today, Wednesday November 1st.

During his tenure in this area, Mr. Wuite, in addition to his role with the Moira Authority has worked with the Prince Edward Authority and this year with the Lower Trent Authority.

WARDEN'S BANQUET HELD AT N.A.E.C.

Approximately 150 people attended the Warden's Banquet for Thomas Neal on Wednesday evening. The North Addington Education Centre provided a lovely setting for the noteworthy occasion. Guests of honour in addition to Mr. Neal were three members of Parliament, Mr. Douglas Alkenbrack, Dr. W. Nuttall, and the Hon. Syl Apps of Kingston; Frontenac County Supreme Court Judge, Hon. Judge Campbell; the members of the County Council of Frontenac, and two former local Reeves, Mr. Harry Levere and Mr. James Hill.

A former councillor, Mr. Oscar Meeks, attended with his wife, who was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Reeve Bill Harvey of Sharbot Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Meeks were honoured as one of the oldest couples at the banquet.

Mr. D. G. Cunningham, Q.C. of Kingston acted as toastmaster of the event. Mr. Neal was presented with a beautiful chime clock by Warden Cecil McReynolds of Howe Island. Reeve O'Shea of Wolfe Island made a presentation of lovely flowers to Mrs. Neal.

Taken from the north-east corner of the building, this picture shows the relocation of the arena entrance.

ARENA NOW READY FOR THE SEASON

Members of the Community Centre Board have been busy the past couple of weeks preparing the arena for the upcoming season.

Considerable renovations to the building have taken place, the most noticeable being the construction of the new entrance at the east side of the building. The old entrance at the north end of the arena has been closed off to allow for interior renovations, where a new food booth has been installed. The new booth is on the ground floor and replaces the old booth which was upstairs. It features a parlours counter of attractive marble design approximately 9 1/2 feet in length and inside is plenty of shelf and counter space and a set of double sinks. The booth is heated with an electric wall heater.

Repair work has been completed on the compressor of the ice-making equipment. Board members worked at the flooding of the ice on Monday night, and it is expected the arena is now ready for use. This has been the least expensive year for the Board in preparing for a season. It is also the earliest date the arena was ready for use in a number of years.

At the suggestion of the Department of Labour, a professional engineer was recently engaged by the Board to inspect the structural adequacy and safety of the arena. However, no reports have been received since the inspectors' visit.

Secretary Wayne Hagerman reports that the arena schedule is closing in, with Sunday afternoon skating, Sunday evening hockey, Monday night curling, Wednesday night skating lessons and Thursday and Friday night minor hockey listed, but there is still some ice time available if required by an organization or club.

TORIES RETAIN LOCAL RIDINGS

The Progressive Conservatives easily retained their traditional political bases of Hastings, Prince Edward-Hastings and Frontenac-Lennox and Addington during Monday's federal election.

Voters returned veteran national politicians in two of the constituencies and elected a newcomer to federal politics in the other: George Hees in Prince Edward-Hastings, Douglas Alkenbrack in Frontenac-Frontenac-Lennox and Addington; Alkenbrack, 14,633; MacKinnon, 8,481; N.D.P., 2,803.

However, on a national scale, the federal election has turned into a neck and neck struggle that will leave the outcome in doubt for days, if not for weeks.

The only certainty is that one of the two old-line parties will form a minority government after all recounts have been made. The number of recounts required is not readily known, but will take place in all ridings where the winner had less than a 25-vote margin.

ABOUT MYSELF

By BILL SMILEY

A couple of weeks ago, while I was writing down the date on my attendance pad, I got a bit of a shock. It was October 13th. Then I realized it was Friday. Hey, my anniversary!

On a gloomy Friday the 13th of October, 1944, I was shot down over Holland by German flak, crash-landed in a plowed field and was taken prisoner.

I've been a little leery of Friday the 13th ever since, but when it also falls in October, as this year, I feel a distinct chill and my first thought is that I should have stayed in bed all day, with the covers pulled over my head, to be safe from the searching finger of fate.

It's ridiculous, of course. I don't believe in black cats, walking under ladders, broken mirrors, the number 13, and all those old-wives' symbols of bad luck.

Even so, I know some of my students wondered why I taught all day, that day, with both hands behind my back. What they didn't know was that I had my fingers crossed, both hands.

Well, now that a reasonable time has passed and the sky hasn't fallen in I can look back on that day in 1944 with no more reaction than sangfroid, which, as any Englishman knows, means bloody cold, and I have one of those, so everything is fine.

In retrospect, that day was not an unlucky, but a lucky one. At the time I didn't think so. I had a date that night with a smashing blonde in Antwerp, and I was justly annoyed that the stupid war had interfered with my social life.

But looking back, it was one of the luckiest days in my life. I still had a miserable, often wretched experience to go through. However, it was one of the most interesting in my life, and I made some fine friends and saw a lot of strange things.

Also, my wing was losing from five to a dozen pilots a week. My own squadron of eighteen pilots had lost Dave Backhouse, Johnny Rook, "Taffy" Price, "Dingle" Bell, and a week before I got it, one of my tent-mates, Freddy Wake-man was killed. (A week after I got it, my other tent-mate went down in flames.)

I had landed once with a bomb dangling, another time with no flaps, no brakes and thirty-six holes in my aircraft. So it was just a matter of time.

I wonder how many of you have had the same experience: believing that the fates had singled you out for special punishment, and discovering, much later, that what seemed at the time a black cloud was really a silver lining in disguise.

Of course, the opposite can happen. Ask some of my friends who thought it was the luckiest day in their lives when they stood in front of the preacher with that gentle, sweet, understanding and voluptuous young creature, and found themselves twenty-five years later manacled to a fat, nagging shrew.

I know, girls, it works both ways. Don't tell me that that handsome, charming young Adonis you stood up with is really the same person as that pot-bellied, bald bore you're living with now, whose idea of a good chat is to rattle his paper at you and grunt.

But on the whole, life, except for those few unfortunate, the born losers, seems to even things out fairly.

Twenty-eight years ago tonight I was pretty blue and miserable. After the most inept escape attempt in the annals of escape, I had been given a thorough going over and was lying in a box-car, tied up, aching in every muscle and a number of bones, including my nose bone, and shivering like a dog evacuating razor blades.

For some reason, the Third Reich had neglected to install a heating system, blankets and mattresses. The only way I could recreate the experience tonight would be to go out and try to sleep on the floor of my garage, which is of the wooden variety, with plenty of ventilation.

Equally faulty was the catering system. There was nothing wrong with the waiters, except that they carried guns and wore big boots. But they were the soul of courtesy, untying my hands at each meal. It was the menu that was lacking. Not much variety. One item, and at some meals, not even one.

The washroom facilities were rather inadequate, too. But how many of you have even been tenderly helped down onto a cinder embankment by a paratrooper, his arm around your waist, yours around his shoulders, to go to the bathroom? I was dragging one leg.

It was good experience. I learned to love black bread, wurst and cabbage soup. I discovered that a single boiled potato, right out of the pot, was a dish for the gods. I learned how much I could take. And I learned to be thankful for exceedingly small mercies. Well worth it.

FIRST A COMMENT

The change from can to bulk shipping continues to grow in numbers. More can be expected to make decisions. Cheese factories are faced with the "can washer" problem. Parts or new machines are not available as needed. New machines can be bought at high cost and if the factory will wait a year or more for delivery. Then, as well, more factories will demand properly cooled milk. The decision of going bulk must be faced. Most important is to face it early and make plans for the future. Don't wait for a last minute change. Get the site selected and approved. Study plans, equipment and costs. Like the Boy Scouts - "Be Prepared".

Look at item no. 1 - its for the dairy farmer. This course has come a long way and this is the first time it has been specialized.

Farm partnerships are still taking a great deal of staff time. In this income Tax and insurance have to be considered. That's why the 2nd and 3rd items are included.

For cattle owners we include an item on warble fly control. This is just as important as it ever was. In this day of fly sprays and oillers, we sometimes forget. Better not, it costs money.

MANAGEMENT OF THE (DAIRY) FARM BUSINESS - 1973

For the 1972-73 winter season the Management of the Farm Business Course will feature a program devoted to the Dairy Farm Industry. This course is provided by Canada Manpower and is carried out by the Retraining Division of Loyalist College, The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food assists with course content and staff.

This special dairy course will be offered at two locations and will run for five weeks. The first course will be held in Campbellford starting on January 8, 1973, and the second course will start on February 5, 1973, in Belleville. Each course has been approved for thirty candidates and they will be selected on the basis of application forms and their qualifications on a first come first served basis.

Applicants must be in the dairy farm business. They can be a sole owner or a member of a partnership. Those that qualify and are accepted on the course will be eligible for various training allowances under the Canada Manpower program.

Past courses carried out under this system have been of a general nature. Now the course is being made specialized. As such dairy farmers who took the previous course prior to two years ago will be eligible for this special course.

The basic structure of the course will naturally enough include fundamentals such as feeding, breeding and livestock management. The soils and crop work will be slanted to production on the dairy farm.

It is hoped that the candidates will be involved in a case study process which will help them to better understand and analyse the dairy business.

Interested dairy farmers can obtain application forms at the county office of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food at Stirling. The deadline for application is December 1, 1972.

50 YEARS AGO

November 15, 1922

Our town Council conscious of the fact the property of all our citizens has not equal fire protection and fully alive to the responsibilities of their position motored to Marmora last Friday to inspect the fire protection there. The Marmora Council kindly gave a demonstration of a chemical engine. The work done by this engine was so satisfactory that our Council was very favorably impressed with it. Marmora had two of these chemical engines and they claim that these engines have more than paid for themselves by saving the citizens property. One great advantage of these engines is that they are always ready for action and being light they can be quickly transported to the scene of the fire and put into operation before much damage has been done. We do not know what conclusion the Council has arrived at but this village has not the fire protection it should have. Should a fire break out in the outskirts of our village in a time like the present when water is so scarce the property would be almost at the mercy of the flames. We were very much surprised to find that Marmora has a very live industry established there in the shape of a soap making establishment, employing about half a dozen hands and turning out a product for which there is an unlimited demand.

The Willing Workers of St. John's Church had a very pleasant time on Friday evening when they entertained about 25 at Miss Sutton's home. The entertainment consisted of a minstrel show. First the negroes sang a patriotic song, "Hark the Drum". The President, Thomas Henry Cabbage then announced that the Gypsy Queen would dance for us. Then came a selection, "My Old Kentucky Home", from the Agony Orchestra which rendered it up in fine style. A dance followed in which the pickin'ies showed what they knew about dancing. Then aunt Jemima Carrot gave us the recipe for her famous plaster with which she once caught a burglar. Songs, choruses and recitations followed until at nine o'clock when refreshments were served. Then all joined in singing "O Canada" and the National Anthem. The proceeds of the evening were $5.00.

While sitting in their home here on November 7th, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Keller and family and Mr. C. W. Pallister, of Campbellford listened in while George Carver and Bertha McMullen were united in marriage in sight of thousands of people at the Electrical Exhibition at East Pittsburgh, Pa. The ceremony was broadcasted through the Post Studio station KDKA of the Westinghouse Electric Co., located at East Pittsburgh. Mr. Keller says the words were even louder and clearer than can be heard in the average church ceremony.

24 YEARS AGO

October 28, 1948

One youth was killed and two other young men are in Belleville General Hospital as a result of an auto crashing into the abutment of a concrete culvert on the outskirts of the village late Saturday night. Bert Young, 17, Madoc Township, suffered fatal injuries. Sitting on the right side of the car he received the full force of the impact as the auto crashed into the culvert. Driver and owner of the car, Ambrose LaBarge, 26, of Actinolite, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and multiple head injuries. The accident occurred approximately 100 yards north of the village limits on Highway 62. The car was proceeding south and crashed into the west abutment of the narrow concrete culvert. The force of the impact was so great that the rear wheels swung into the air and came to rest on the three foot railing on the east side of the culvert. Police were quickly on the scene but the car was so badly crushed that it took an hour to extricate the injured men from the car. Acetylene torches could not be used because of danger of fire from gasoline. Young died fifteen minutes after being released from the wrecked car. Dr. S. Eagleson, Madoc, coroner, attended at the scene of the accident but did not state whether an inquest would be held. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constables T. W. Lummiss and Jack Hatch. Bush's Ambulance Service conveyed the two injured men to Belleville Hospital.

Through the efforts of Dr. Sidney Smith and Senator George S. White, it is reliably understood that the Canadian Government will release Government owned Cobalt Ores stored at Deloro to the Deloro Smelting & Refining Company, Limited for the treatment and recovery of Cobalt Metal for the Canadian Government Stock Pile. This action by the Government will ensure at least 5 months of full employment throughout the winter months for some 100 employees, who otherwise, would have been laid off in the very near future due to completion of existing contracts with the U.S. Government. The Deloro Smelting & Refining Company, Limited has for the past 8 years had almost its total Cobalt production capacity engaged in the treatment of Canadian Cobalt Ores from the U.S. Government stock pile. With completion of these contracts, the Deloro Smelting & Refining Company, Limited will have available some spare capacity. The nature of these Canadian Cobalt ores is such that no other smelter on the North American Continent is fully equipped to treat them.

The Public Speaking contest for Hastings No. 3, was held in the Presbyterian Church, Stirling, on Tuesday, October 29th, with eleven students competing. Winners were: Gail Scott, S.S. No. 3, Rawdon, 1st; Billy Howse, Madoc, 2nd, subject, "Canada's Tenth Province."

Aircraft plays an important part in modern day fish planting and transfers from one hatchery to another. Trout transfers currently underway to White Lake rearing ponds are now being completed with Department of Lands and Forest Otter aircraft that is capable of carrying 30,000 Speckled Trout fingerlings per load. In all aircraft will have transported 349,000 Trout to the White Lake this fall.

On Friday evening, September 27th, about eighty friends and neighbours gathered in the Orange Hall, Queensboro, for a social evening and presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Galea, formerly Miss Mary Laffin. An appropriate address was read by Mrs. Harry DeClair. The gifts were then presented to the young couple by Mrs. Fred Bosley, Mrs. Kenneth Sexsmith and Mrs. Josephine Feeney, which included two walnut step tables, a walnut coffee table, two dresser lamps and a rug. Mr. and Mrs. Galea then expressed their sincere thanks and appreciation for the lovely gifts. Dancing and lunch then completed a most enjoyable evening.

Births — At Mrs. Alexander's Nursing Home, on Saturday, October 26, 1957, to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Willemsen, a son.

At Mrs. Alexander's Nursing Home, on Sunday, October 27, 1957, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nickle, a son.

FRIENDLY HINTS
SEED CORN TO MEET YOUR NEEDS
A brand new corn variety — CO-OP 264 — is now available from your co-operative. It was developed for growing in Heat Unit areas of 2500 (75 days), depending on end use. It will mature in time for late silage or grain corn harvested for high moisture corn storage.
This means in areas of higher heat units, it will be an early maturing corn.
CO-OP 264 is a three way cross, easy picker with strong stalk, and an excellent yielder. It effectively helps to change the Ontario corn map because of its early maturity.
Corn breeding is an area of research that UCO has developed strongly in recent years. A full time plant breeder develops new varieties constantly. Objectives of his breeding program are primarily high yields, but maturity, strength of stalk, speed of germination, disease resistance and easy picking and shelling characteristics are other extremely important characteristics.
The varieties are developed in nurseries at Thamesville, Listowel and Finch. A nursery is maintained in Florida also, to provide year round growing conditions that speed up the plant breeding program, overwinter.
Once developed the varieties are field tested, and checked closely before approval by the Ontario Corn Committee.
More than 80 demonstration plots across Ontario provide an opportunity for observation by farmers. Check with the co-op manager or fieldman in your area to visit the demonstration plots closest to your farm.

WOMEN'S MISSION CIRCLE
The October meeting of the Women's Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Kay Beaudrow on Monday, October 30th, at 2:00 p.m.
Mrs. Warbrick presided and opened the meeting by singing a Hymn, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus". Leading in prayer, Mrs. Warbrick especially mentioned the French work in the Province of Quebec.
The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Roll Call was answered by repeating a favourite verse of Scripture.
Mrs. Demille, group leader, conducted the program. Hymn, "Praise the Saviour Ye Who Know Him", was sung. Mrs. Demille led in prayer. The topic of the program was, "Satan's Battle for Our Minds". Satan has been very much present in our world, right from the Garden of Eden. He led Adam and Eve to believe a lie rather than the truth of God, and so brought forth the fall of man. He works in a subtle way and influences people who are in ignorance of what the Scriptures say about salvation.
In Exodus God's children were promised the land of Canaan, but also that they would have trials and troubles on their journey. Satan's plan is to cause people to be obsessed with the desire to know the future, and so seek it through spiritism, wizards, soothsayers, etc. Many also are looking to the science of astrology to guide their lives. Satan's desire is to have people turn from God to false teachers. Moses warned the people to depart from spirits, etc. Saul was chosen by God to be King of Israel and at first listened to Samuel, a prophet of God, but later turned to man and eventually sought help from the witch of Endor.
Scripture was read from Deuteronomy, Chapter 18, verses 9 to 12, and from I Samuel 28, verses 7 to 8, also 14 and 28.
In the New Testament we read of Simon the Sorcerer, who became a Christian, through hearing the Gospel from Philip. We are either in God's power or in Satan's. Acts 8, verses 9 and 10 was read.
Mrs. Forbes read a poem, "Unto this day God hath planned", after which Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Demille sang two solos, "I Know Who Holds the Future", and "If We Could see Beyond Today".
Mrs. Gates read a chapter from the Study Book, "Fire on the Mountain".
Mrs. Rauws led in prayer for the missionaries. Hymn, "Saviour Lead Me Lest I Stray", was sung.
Mrs. Demille closed the meeting with prayer and gave thanks for the refreshments.

Chicken Processing Plant Receives ARDA Grant
Using a patented process for "fried" chicken, Caroline's Foods Limited in Frontenac County plans to process 480,000 locally produced chickens annually. Announcement of the ARDA grant was made simultaneously by Hon. William A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture and Food for Ontario and Hon. Jean Marchand, Federal Minister of Regional Economic Expansion.
The ARDA grant for $49,000 will enable this company to install equipment for processing and freezing cut-up chicken. The finished product is first seasoned, cooked under pressure and then quick-frozen and packaged for sale to institutions and supermarkets.
The plant is located in an area where unemployment has been high. It is estimated that 10 new jobs will be created immediately, with a further increase of 20 jobs over the next four years. By providing year-round employment with the payment of regular salaries, this company will have a vital effect on the economic outlook of the whole community.
This grant will be shared equally by the two senior levels of government under the terms of the 1970-75 Federal-Provincial Rural Development Agreement.

ARTHUR FAIR: 50 YEARS IN LAW

With Mr. Arthur Fair being so well known in this area, the Review is reproducing the below article which appeared in the October 25th issue of the Peterborough Examiner.

(By PETE MCGILLEN)

W. J. Arthur Fair, Q.C., lawyer in this city since 1934, this week marked half a century in the practice of law, and he is still active and at his office daily. He is to be presented with a life membership in the Law Society of Upper Canada when the annual meeting is held next April.

The six-foot-two-inch barrister had a colorful life marked by a high measure of success and was even considered by his local colleagues to be a bit of a flambouyant for the local scene. But his clients, the public and the court attendants put the stamp of approval on a style that gave spice and life to the otherwise drab tapestry of court proceedings. His vigorous and vociferous defence of clients often startled officials and opposition.

ENLISTED

Arthur Fair was born in Midland in 1897 and on Aug. 4, 1914, when just 17, enlisted in World War One. He was picked for military school and his room-mate was The Hon. Leslie M. Frost. He graduated with the rank of lieutenant and was posted to the Mississauga Horse and later to the 75th Battalion. He went to Parry Sound and recruited 'A' Company for the 162nd Battalion. While overseas he boxed his way to the first heavyweight championship of the officers' class. His weight was 190.

He is the son of a North Ireland Methodist, and an Irish Catholic mother who attended mass every day that he was overseas. He escaped without a scratch while commanding a machine gun battery at Paschendaele he lost his gas mask for four days and suffered a touch of gas, from shells the enemy was dropping on the sea of mud. At Vimy, the lung condition was aggravated by more gas. He was discharged with the rank of captain.

PLANE 8

While returning on the Aquitania in 1919, Alcott and Brown, the first two fliers to cross the Atlantic, eight years before Lindbergh got his deluge of publicity, are believed to have flown over the ship but overcast conditions made it impossible to spot the plane.

He was graduated from Midland High School, then from University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall and was called to the bar on Oct. 19, 1922. He was president of his graduating class.

He first practised in Toronto and with the firm of Kerr, Davidson, Patterson and McFarlane. He was recommended for the Attorney-General's department and spent four years in that post as a prosecutor. On several occasions he was appointed a commissioner to investigate certain financial irregularities under the Securities, Fraud Prevention Act.

In the early thirties, Toronto pollution aggravated his lung and bronchial condition, so doctors at Christie Street recommended that he move to Peterborough, where the air was cleaner.

The doctors and his legal colleagues told him that Peterborough was a cold, unfriendly town, and it is possible that these remarks might have influenced his attitude towards his new home. One lawyer said "You'll discover that Peterborough is a typical Family Compact town, run by several old families."

LONELINESS

"I've never felt that I have been accepted by the old Peterborough families and so I felt a certain loneliness, but nonetheless I built up an enormous practice, and my life centred around my business, my family and my flower garden," Mr. Fair said.

Continuing, he said: "A substantial influx of new people following World War Two tempered the community and made it more cosmopolitan and friendly."

About 15 years ago he was invited to make an application for a judgeship in the Supreme Court but he turned it down.

Arthur Fair is a big man and an impeccable dresser and it would appear a man with a great hunger for success. His practice extends as far east as Kingston and west into Victoria County. In more than 3,000 actions he successfully defended his clients. He defended three men charged with murder, won two acquittals and had the third case reduced to manslaughter.

Seven times he carried appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada and won three of them.

REWARDING

"I found it financially rewarding to come here, but it took some adjusting in my court style, because things are not quite the same in the Attorney-General's department."

It wasn't long before I discovered that I was too involved in my business to have much social life. I did however become a member of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club," he recalled.

His back garden at the Weller street residence is a showplace of color during the spring and summer. There are more than 122 roses and perennials and a border of high shrubs gives adequate privacy.

Book salesmen claim that he has the most complete privately-owned law library in Ontario, and the walls jammed with books bear this out. There are more than 3,000 volumes in three rooms of his office.

Two of his brothers reached high posts in the realm of industry. A. E. H. Fair is a former president of Howard Smith Paper Mills and another brother, N. B. A. Fair, was general sales manager of the E. B. Eddy Company.

Arthur Fair married Evelyn Halloran of Toronto and had three children and seven grandchildren. Arthur Jr., at home, is an honors graduate of St. Francis Xavier College in Antigonish. Mary is Mrs. Don Pearse of this city and Robert is a plant superintendent in St. Catharines.

During recent years he has had periods of laryngitis because of the war-time gas inhalations, but it doesn't interfere with his practice which is as brisk as ever.

One of his colleagues in the city says Mr. Fair enjoys the esteem and affection of all the older members of the bar, and that his courtesy and co-operation to the younger lawyers is well-known. Plans are underway by the Peterborough County Law Association to provide appropriate recognition and tribute.

The forty-sixth annual Trent Valley Area Convention of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 24th and 25th, at Northminster United Church in Peterborough.

The meeting opened at 9:30 in the morning, with a registration of 260 members.

Trent Valley Area President, Mrs. Gordon Macklin, of Cobourg, called the meeting to order. The roll call was answered with the following seven District Presidents speaking on the theme, "Vision with Action": Hastings East, Mrs. Fred Wellman, R.R. 2, Stirling; Hastings North, Mrs. Glen Barker, McArthur's Mills; Hastings West, Mrs. Roy Tucker, Stirling; Northumberland East, Mrs. P. Whitehouse, Brighton; Northumberland West, Mrs. J. C. Eriksen, Baltimore; Peterborough, Mrs. M. Cornish, R.R. 1, Indian River; Prince Edward, Mrs. George Vincent, Bloomfield.

Miss Helen McKercher, Director of Home Economics Services, Department of Agriculture and Food, was the guest speaker of the morning. This being the 75th Anniversary of the Women's Institutes, she reminded the members of the vision shown so many years ago. The purpose of the Women's Institute is to develop people. The world of action is made up of not of nations but individuals who are willing to go from the beginning of knowledge to the full realization of their dreams. One isn't a bore if you do your best, even if you aren't any good at the chore.

Miss McKercher suggested that the members start now to learn the metric system and be fully prepared when it comes into use in 1975.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Clarence Mann of Peterborough, retiring Federated Board Member, and Mrs. Gordon McCulloch of Campbellford, retiring Area Secretary-Treasurer.

Mrs. Percy Carman of Marmora reported on the work done and studies made concerning

Following the day-long seminar, a forum with speakers will be open to the public, at Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital.

RIISING COSTS FORCE HYDRO RATE INCREASE

Based on rising trends in energy costs, rate increases for all Ontario Hydro customers were announced today by Hydro Chairman George Gathercole.

Interim wholesale rates to municipal commissions will rise by an average of 8 per cent, while the average increase to direct industrial customers will be 12 per cent. Both of these increases are effective January 1, 1973. To retail customers (cottages, farms and rural residences), the average increase is 10 per cent and is effective on bills payable February 5, 1973. There has been no increase in rates to Ontario Hydro direct industrial and rural customers in the last two years, whereas there was an increase of 8 per cent in the interim rates to municipal electric utilities effective last July 1.

Mr. Gathercole cited inflation and resultant escalation in costs of equipment and supplies, interest rates, wages and salaries, fuels and anti-pollution measures as the causes for the raise.

The Province's 350 municipal utilities, 91 large industrial customers served directly by Ontario Hydro and some 600,000 rural consumers are affected.

Mr. Gathercole said the rate increases will not be sufficient alone to meet rising costs and that withdrawals will have to be made from the reserve fund. Generally speaking, this fund has been established to absorb the cost of such factors as variation in stream flows, major physical damage to plant, delays in bringing generating plants into service, and exchange risk on debts payable in foreign currency.

A year ago, Hydro advised its customers that in spite of intensive cost pressures, there would be a temporary deferment of a rate increase because of the state of the economy. With the improvement in economic conditions, an interim increase of 8 per cent to municipal commissions was made on July 1. But no increase was made at that time to the large industrial customers, whose contracts run from January 1 to December 31st, or to rural customers.

Mr. Gathercole said, "In recent years, after a long period of rate stability or decline, spiralling inflation has begun to effect electric costs and rates. Interest rates on borrowed capital, wages and salaries and the price of property, supplies and materials have been rising faster than savings resulting from rising consumption per customer and other economy measures.

"Because Hydro has to operate at cost, rate increases in recent years have had to follow the upward trend in cost of most other goods and services and wages and salaries. For example, between 1961 and 1971, the average cost per kilowatt-hour to municipal residential customers rose 18.6 per cent, but during the same period the consumer price index, jumped 33.4 per cent and the average Ontario wage and salary increased 75.9 per cent."

To meet the increasing demand for power, he said Hydro is forced to build more thermal generating plants. Here Hydro is faced not only with rising fuel prices but also costly anti-pollution control measures.

"Inflation is the industry's most grievous problem. However, an analysis of prices of other energy sources also reveals a sharp upward trend. And taking into account its long history of rate stability, we believe electricity will continue to be a remarkable bargain," said Mr. Gathercole.

CONSERVATION AUTHORITY EMPHASIS TO SHIFT

Sharply increasing costs of vacant and sub-marginal land which has all but ruled out continued large scale reforestation, has forced a change in operations of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Where emphasis originally was on the development of new conservation areas and in planting of trees, the trend now is toward water improvement projects, outdoor education and pollution control.

And the future will likely see still further changes in the work of the authority.

This was indicated last week by W. Graham Bell, chairman of the authority's board, during a bus trip to authority projects taken by organization members.

Mr. Bell said sharply increasing land prices had all but forced the Authority out of the land purchase market.

The all-day bus trip covering many Authority projects was sponsored by the Authority Pollution Control and Forest Advisory Boards as part of the organization's 25-year anniversary celebrations.

The tour included a drive-through inspection of Belleville's west side Moira greenbelt area, the purchase cost of which to a large extent was provided through provincial grants arranged through the Authority.

The tour also included the recently-opened Sidney Conservation Area, taken over from the now-closed federal research laboratory in Belleville, the Marmaraton Mine, and an inspection of the old Thompson mill at Queensboro.

Noon luncheon was enjoyed at Price's Restaurant at Actinolite (courtesy Jack Ellis, Hastings Progressive Conservative candidate).

During the afternoon, members inspected authority pine plantations at Actinolite and in Hungerford Township, stopped at the Vanderwater Conservation Area at Thomasburg and also at the Plainfield Conservation Area where the Hastings County Board of Education has set up an outdoor education area.

Here a portable classroom has been erected from which the board's outdoor education program will be conducted. The area will be officially opened on October 21.

Pollution Control Advisory Board chairman, Graham Bell, acted as the day's tour guide. Carl Richmond, of Richmond Township is chairman of the Forest Advisory Board.

Four members were told that the Moira Authority, in its quarter century of existence, had been fortunate in being able to purchase large areas of reforestation area property, which in future years would be the envy of other authorities across the province.

The Moira authority now owns approximately 17,000 acres of land and operates three water control reservoir dams.

Originally, the Authority had but four advisory boards — conservation areas, forestry, water control and education.

In recent years two other Advisory Boards, Wildlife and Pollution Control, have been added.

Road Report Service Starts NOV. 9th.

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications has announced that its Winter Road Reporting Service for the public will go into operation on Monday, November 6.

The Road Information Centre at Toronto and the Ministry's 18 district offices throughout the province will have up-to-date information on the condition of all provincial highways and secondary highways on a 24-hour, seven-days-a-week basis, during the winter months.

Information on winter road conditions may be obtained around the clock by telephoning the various MTC offices in Ontario. The closest office for Madoc area residents is Bancroft, phone 332-3220.

O.P.P. REPORT

Over the past week five accidents resulted in two personal injuries, $225.00 vehicle damage and $25.00 property damage other than vehicles.

As the result of two shoplifting, four thefts and three break, enter and thefts there was $2,809.00 worth of property stolen.

Two alleged auto thefts were reported to this detachment. In the first case the owner, assisted by a police officer, found the said vehicle where he had left it. In the second case a friend of the owner took his auto without the owner's knowledge. In neither instance were there charges laid.

One person was charged with "Drunk in a Public Place" and two with "Having Liquor in a Place Other than Residence". Five impaired drivers were charged under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Property in the amount of $110.00 was damaged intentionally since last Friday.

Three disturbances, one family dispute, one abandoned auto found, one neighbour problem and one sighting of a prowler were among the general occurrences investigated by the officers of Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police.

Nineteen charges were laid under the Highway Traffic Act, some of which were: "Littering the Highway", "Unnecessary Noise", "Drive an Unsafe Vehicle", "Speeding" and "Improper Brakes".

Ten charges were laid under the Criminal Code in reference to drinking and driving.

Car Drivers! You have probably noticed that daylight is ending earlier these days. Collision facts prove that darkness increases Traffic Hazards... and traffic collisions.

Adjust your speed accordingly... slow down after sundown!

Good drivers keep pace with traffic, and... no matter what the conditions are, they always keep control.

Our Snacking habits...

Mrs. Paula Green

We are a nation of enthusiastic snackers — most of us munch, crunch and nibble our way through the day.
We have mid-morning and mid-afternoon breaks, the inevitable evening TV nibble as well as in-between treats. It's a fairly new kind of eating pattern and has much to do with our country's comparative abundance.
Children and teenagers especially enjoy snacking. It's good to remind ourselves that snacks are part of the days total food consumption. A large amount of packaged snacks appears hunger but contribute very little nutritional benefit. Snacks of natural foods such as fruit, cheese, raw vegetables can be made to taste delicious and provide nutrition for in-between treats.
Our children can be trained to acquire good eating and snacking habits. It's our responsibility too.

More than 300 attended the Warden's Banquet last Friday night in the Legion building, Pinnacle Street, Belleville.

The banquet, said, Carman Gibson, warden of Hastings County, "has become a tradition with us."

It is one time in the year when past councillors and wardens, staff of the county and their families can all get together, said Mr. Gibson, guest of honor at the party.

Members of both provincial and federal government were also in attendance.

Mr. Gibson steps down from office this year and during the evening to commemorate his term, he and his wife were presented with a dining room suite from the county and a portrait from their immediate family.

TOPS CLUB NEWS

The Queen for the Tops Club No. 1146 for this week was Mrs. Helen Holmes, with a loss of four pounds. Mrs. Holmes received the rose.

A total of 15 1/2 pounds was lost during the week, while the gains were one and a half pounds.

There were twelve present at this week's meeting, where Mrs. Shirley Courneyea was named queen for the month of October. Shirley had lost 7 1/2 pounds to win the title.

MADOC MIXED BOWLING

Lake Old Man River, they just keep rolling along, as the Twisters blanked the Lucky Sevens last week with Joe Mallia 788 (315), Leo Coveney 786 (321), Pearl Foley 613 (262) and Eileen DeClair 610 (222) leading the way to a 3567 total. The Lucky Sevens who bowled well enough to ordinarily take points had good scores from Ruth Holmes 637 (260), Carol Parankuk 586 (218) and Stan Asselstine 581 (235). The Kingspins broke out of a long slump and took a 5 - 2 split from the Misfits with Leon Bernier 612 (233) and Betty Stevens 590 (229) being the difference in this set - too. The Happy Gang were fortunate to take a 4 - 3 split from the Volunteers who were one bowler short. Joe Bosasio 712 (300), Bill Bird 631 (259), Jack Booth 616 (234) and Jerry Snider 587 (220) were the leaders in this close battle. A few singles worthy of mention were Mel Caverly 234, Joe Foley 232, Don DeClair 220 and Lorraine Booth 214. Team Standings show the Twisters well out in front with 43 followed by the Happy Gang 30, Lucky Sevens 28, Misfits 22, Volunteers 17 and Kingspins 7.

VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT HELD AT CENTRE HASTINGS

Despite the fact that Centre Hastings has participated in the Bay of Quinte Volleyball League for two years, the Junior team finished the season with a 26 and 2 record, thus winning the Bay of Quinte championship. A great deal of hard work and dedication of the players has made them a real contender for the C.O.S.S.A. championship which will be held Saturday November 11th, in Cobourg. On Saturday, November 4th, Centre Hastings held a volleyball tournament. The purpose of the tournament was to give all the teams that will be competing at C.O.S.S.A. a day of practise.

Participating in Saturday's tournament were Clarke High School from Newcastle, North Hastings High School from Bancroft, two teams from Centre Hastings Secondary School, and three from North Addington Education Centre of Cloyne. The Cloyne Seniors were the overall champions of the day.

Centre Hastings Juniors won six out of twelve games against senior ball clubs, defeated Cloyne Juniors twice, North Hastings Seniors once, Centre Hastings Seniors twice and Cloyne Seniors once. (Cloyne Seniors are the present Bay of Quinte Champs.)

OUR TRIP TO KLEINBURG

Forty very excited art students from Madoc Public School visited the Michael Conservation Collection of Art in Kleinburg.

Kleinburg is a very small town situated on a big hill. As our bus approached the studio we saw three jagged boulders in a field adjoining the studio. These rocks are the gravestones of Lawren Harris, Frederick Varley, his wife, and J. E. H. MacDonald.

Along the walk to the studio we stopped to examine the shack of Tom Thomson which had been moved from its original location in Rosedale, Toronto to Kleinburg so more people could see the conditions under which he worked.

A ladder led to his bed which was suspended from the ceiling. There were some of his possessions in the shack, including an unfinished canvas on an easel.

We were very impressed by the galleries which were built from hand hewn beams and weather beaten boards from old barns.

When we were told that the McMichaels had donated their entire estate to the province we expected to find a very large and stately old home instead of Tapawingo which is what the original home of four rooms was called.

The McMichaels' collection started to snowball from one painting to so many that they had to add more rooms and long halls. It now has three floors with twenty-seven galleries with another being added, and because their collection was so extensive they opened it to the public so more could enjoy it.

We especially enjoyed the works of Lawren Harris because of his simplicity of line and different style. One canvas that stood out in our minds was Mount Lefroy.

More paintings are being donated to the galleries all the time, and no one could count the numerous paintings.

Each artist had a gallery for his work only.

We were particularly impressed by the paintings by the Group of Seven because we had studied them in our art classes. We also discovered that there are many other Canadian

NEW FACES LIKELY IN MUNICIPAL COUNCILS

Whether or not municipal elections in this area will be necessary remains undetermined. The five area councils, including Huntingdon, Madoc Village, Madoc Township, Elzevir and Grimsthorpe and Tudor & Cashes have not yet received nominations for opposition to those already serving their municipalities and do not know if any will be submitted.

Huntingdon Township Reeve Russell Sills reports he is undecided about seeking re-election, while Deputy Reeve George Wood intends to hold his position if no one opposes him. Harold Thompson is the only Councillor planning to stay in Council for the next term. Councillor John Wuite, who has moved to a new locality, will be giving up his position at the end of December when his term runs out. The third Councillor, Mac Saries, who has been on council only for the past few months following the resignation of one member, has announced he will not be running in the election. Reeve Sills says there will definitely be new faces in Council in January 1973, but because no nominations have been received, who they will be remains a mystery.

Reeve T. C. Barton of Madoc Village is running for re-election, but a notable change in the council members will take place. Councillor Clayton Smith has announced that he will be withdrawing from council at the close of this term, while it is anticipated that Robert Kirkwood and Robert Graham will let their names stand for re-election. The fourth councillor, Kel Kincaid, has indicated his candidacy for the post of Deputy Reeve. The only indication of a new councillor so far is the announcement by Wayne Hagerman of his intentions to run in the election. Reeve Barton said council would welcome nominations, but reminds everyone that the deadline for such is fast approaching.

In Madoc Township, Reeve Cecil Woods intends to seek re-election. For a first time, the municipality will have a deputy reeve, and, so far, only Councillor John Irwin has announced his intentions to run for the position. All three other Councillors, Christie Bailey, Harold Harris and Don Wannamaker have indicated that they will be staying on council if no one opposes them.

A report from Elzevir & Grimsthorpe Township was not available this week. However, a Reeve and four councillors will be required for next year's council, whether or not any new members are elected.

Reeve Ross Sprackell of Tudor & Cashes Township is running for re-election, and as yet, no other candidate is contesting the position. The municipality will be electing a Deputy Reeve for a first time this year, but no nominations have yet been submitted for this. Presently an council are four councillors, Joe Brintnell and Claude Davidson of Millbridge and Richard McMurray and Arnold Burkitt, of Gilmour. Only three of these can be in the new council and it is expected that at least one will be nominated as a candidate for deputy reeve.

The Cat Came Back

"Shadow" has been found! Mr. and Mrs. E. Burke heard a strange noise in their garage (could it be an abandoned baby?) and upon investigation, discovered an oddly marked cat, cream coloured with traces of lavender around its face. The strange wailing noise it made, made them realize it must be a siamese. A telephone call to a nearby cat lover, brought forth the information that it might be Shadow, a lilac-point siamese, who has been lost for three weeks. Sure enough, it was, and there's a mighty happy Phillips family in town, reunited with their pet. Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Burke, for your kindness to animals!

by BILL SMILEY

Today I was discussing newspaper columnists with some of my senior students. It was a perfectly legitimate exercise in the teaching of English, but the devil knows that if they can get me off track, bragging or reminiscing, I might get carried away and forget to give them their homework assignment.

Therefore, someone craftily introduced the subject of this column: Sly questions, leading one further and further away from the original point. It worked. Most people are never happier than when they're talking about themselves or their work. I took the bait.

"I suppose you write four or five ahead," suggested one lad.

A lot of people have this loony idea. I tersely told the truth: that I write it right on the deadline, even though I have a whole week to work on it. I'm usually galloping to the post office to catch the last possible mail. There are 168 hours in a week, and I use the last two of them.

(I can hear some editors and readers sniffing and muttering, "They read like it, too.")

But I've discovered that it is psychologically impossible for me to turn out a column unless the guillotine is hanging over me. I've tried it in the summer holidays, but have given up. On each occasion I'd sit there, looking and feeling stupid, tear out of the typewriter sheet after sheet, crumple it, and try again. Nothing doing.

I am constantly telling budding writers to establish a regular work pattern. Afraid it's a case of "do as I say" rather than "do as I do."

Oh, they get a lot of good advice. Constantly. I extol the work habits of people like Leacock and Hemingway, who got up early and worked steadily for so many hours. Then one of my little inner voices snaps, "Why don't you do it your- self?" My other little inner voice snaps right back, "Hell, I'm not a writer, I'm a columnist." Saved again.

When youthful writers ask me what to write about, I tell them to write about what they know and do and feel. This time, I follow my own advice. If I didn't, I wouldn't have enough material to keep me going for a month.

"Yah, but what kinda stuff?" they retort in their impeccable teenage English.

This is a variant on the adult query I've heard so often, "Where do you get all them ideas for your little articles?"

Well, folks, I wish a butler would appear once a week with a little silver salver bearing a piece of paper, and announce, "Your idea for this week, sir." But he doesn't, and I probably wouldn't know what to do with it if he did. Besides, I don't have a butler, dammit.

However, I do have a wife. Occasionally, in despair, I'll say, "What in the world am I going to write about this week?"

She'll say, "Write about spring" or something about as helpful. I respond, "O.K." and write a column about spring. Nothing to it.

Just before the election, something came up that might have been material for a column. An old friend phoned. My wife answered. She called, "Paul wants to know if the Liberals can put a sign on our lawn," frowning and shaking her head at me.

Airily I said, "Sure, I don't care," though I hadn't decided which way I was going to vote. Hand over the mouth- piece, she hissed at me, "No, I don't want a sign on our lawn."

Even more airily, I said, "Yes, he can. Tell him. For once in your life, woman, do what you're told." She did.

But her wrath mounted steadily. Five minutes later she was on the blower to N.D.P. headquarters, telling them they could put a sign on our lawn.

I didn't give a diddle. A lawn is only a lawn, and a sign is only a sign. But, though I was polite, I was a little cheesed when two NDP characters showed up at the door, ostensibly to thank us. Not only did they try to sell me on socialism, but at least what passes for it in this country, but they drank all my beer and ate all my cheese. Their idea of socialism, I guess.

Next morning, I was a bit startled to walk out and see four signs on the lawn, two Liberal, two NDP. Right there and then, I almost decided to vote the straight Tory ticket.

There were the usual needles from neighbours and colleagues. "A house divided against itself, eh, Smiley?" And "What are you trying to do, Smiley, get out the vote?"

I coolly ignored the jibes, but secretly wondered whether there was material for a column in it. That's the way a columnist thinks, so watch what you say when I'm around. I decided there wasn't. And, as you can see, I was right.

Perhaps this column should be headed, "How Not To Write a Column." But you see, I did, and you read it. At least, I hope you did. Surely three or four of you did. If you didn't, write me and explain why.

"Industries can locate in rural areas and can compete successfully with their urban counterparts if the products produced and the materials used can be transported at reasonable cost," says Bruce Hodgins, Rural Development Officer for the ARDA Branch of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Peterborough. This, in fact, is one of the basic assumptions of the ARDA Program in its efforts to encourage small industry to locate, expand or modernize in rural communities in order to provide more employment opportunities for rural people.

"The plastics industry," Hodgins contends, "appears to be an industry which can accommodate itself to the rural environment if the success of Universal Seals Limited, Bancroft, could be considered representative."

Universal Seals is Canada's first and largest producer of polyurethane seals and mechanical packing. Most of its output is used in conjunction with hydraulic equipment and shipments are made almost daily by bus to many parts of Canada supplying users with needs which were formerly imported from England, Germany or the United States.

Universal Seals Ltd. is owned by Flemming Seyler and his wife, both of whom are actively engaged in the management, development and operation of the business and both have a very high regard for the residents of Montegale Township, Hastings County, deep in the Madawaska Valley Tourist Country.

Jesse Carr, R.R. 5, Bancroft, reeve of Montegale, is also interested in the welfare of the townships 987 residents. The fifteen jobs provided by the company are held by township residents, most of whom are married women, whose extra income helps to augment their husband's farming enterprise which at best is plagued by weather, soil and marketing problems. Carr would like to see other small, clean industries establish in the area to take advantage of the willingness of the residents to work and at the same time enjoy all the advantages of country living.

The success of Universal Seal in establishing a profitable growing industry in a remote rural area is attracting attention and is encouraging ARDA support for many other industries.

The ARDA Program in Ontario is under the direction of the ARDA Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. It is financed jointly from the budgets of the Federal Department of Regional Economic Expansion and the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. Its effective area of operation includes all of the province except south western Ontario. If you are in an eligible area for ARDA assistance and are considering producing anything from electronic equipment, to toys, from armatures to mobile homes, from rough lumber to spoons and hobbins, ARDA may be able to help.

Party Hunting In Ontario Is Explained By Ministry

Each year Ontario's conservation officers are asked this same question by deer and moose hunters, "If my partner has a deer licence and I have a moose licence can I shoot a deer for him?" The answer is a definite NO.

Party hunting is allowed in Ontario and is explained as follows by the ministry of natural resources:

A hunter may hold only one deer licence in any year and this licence is valid to take only one deer. However, where two or more persons who hold licences to hunt deer are hunting as a party, any member of the party may take or kill the number of deer that is equal to the number of deer licences held by members of the party.

Similarly, where two or more persons who hold licences to hunt moose are hunting as a party, any member of the party may kill the number of moose that is equal to the number of moose licences held in the party.

but the total number of moose killed must not exceed the total number of licences held by members of the party.

No person who holds only a deer licence may hunt or kill a moose for some other member of the party who holds a moose licence. Nor may the holder of a moose licence who is a member of a party hunt or kill a deer unless he has his own deer licence. If a party is hunting with a common purpose for both deer and moose then every member of the party must have both a deer and a moose licence. Hunters must not participate in the hunting or killing of any species unless they have a licence to do so.

Hunting includes chasing, pursuing, following after or on the trail of, searching for, shooting, shooting at, stalking or lying-in-wait for, worrying, molesting, taking or destroying an animal or bird. To participate in any of the above a hunting licence is required, except as provided under the Game and Fish Act and the Regulations.

FRIENDLY HINTSTRACTOR FUEL CONSUMPTION

Heavy fall work of harvesting and plowing is a good time to take note of the general gasoline consumption of your tractor. While it varies among makes and sizes of tractors, fuel consumption can be measured against these simple formulae developed by an agricultural engineer at the University of Missouri.

Fuel consumption of a gasoline tractor - 0.06 x max. pto h.p.

Fuel consumption of a diesel tractor - 0.044 x max. pto h.p.

When these are applied, it means that a 75 hp gasoline engine or a 100 hp diesel engine should use about 4.5 gallons of fuel per hour when working.

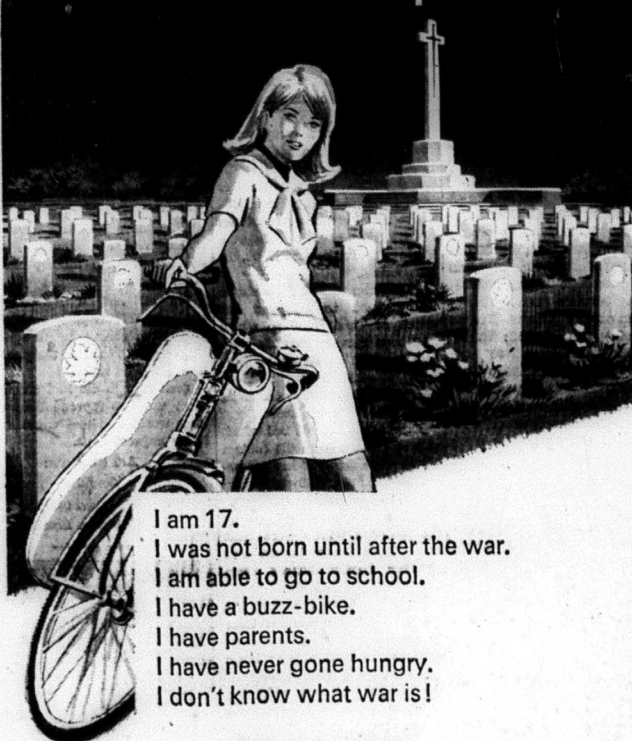

So if your tractor is burning up a great deal more fuel than this, you should look for reasons. However, before you work on the carburetor or motor, check your tractor's fuel system for leaks.

Other points to check are air cleaners, spark plugs, points, condensers and distributor caps. Any of these, if faulty, can lead to higher fuel use and power loss. Plugs should be cleaned and gapped after 100 hours of operation, but checked more frequently on older worn engines.

Incorrect timing, leads to higher fuel consumption. Firing too late will lead to overheating and power loss while firing too soon causes knocking, with possible damage to the engine.

On diesel engines, fuel injectors require maintenance as per operator's manual instructions. Finally, after you have checked and corrected all the faults we have mentioned, check the carburetor as a reason for high fuel consumption. Defective chokes, incorrect float levels due to sticking or poor adjustment or leaks, and worn jets are all potential problems in carburetors. Adjustments are not easily done by amateurs, however, and should be left to an experienced mechanic.

And don't forget to check your driving habits. Overloading the tractor, excessive wheel slippage, or riding the brakes for example, will contribute also to high fuel use.

In memory of John McCrae, the author of "In Flanders Fields".

In Flanders Fields the parched wind blows,
Across the soil where no life grows.
Throughout the earth, across the sea
There is no man or beast or tree.
We are the dead.
Short days ago, our world felt dawn,
Saw sunset glow.
Great cities stood and people were
Where now there's only sands that burn.
The world is dead,
But cry no more —
This was the war
To end all wars.

MOSTLY ABOUT SOMETHING (but not necessarily)

(By BEV. BROWNING)

Every Sunday night at 8:00 p.m. you can usually watch the F.B.I. in action on one of the American channels. Well, I've been watching for the exciting story, "The Jack in The Beanstalk Caper". Probably will never see it on television but I sure would like to know how it turned out. (You see I know the plot but I don't know the epilogue).

Apparently last summer the F.B.I. computer matched an Eddie Allen from Detroit with an Eddie Allen a fugitive who escaped custody thirty-two years ago. Allen, now fifty years old and the father of seven finally had his past catch up with him. When he was eighteen years old he sold one of his grandmother's cows to help his mother get some money to raise the family. She had been arrested for cow theft. After being convicted and sentenced to one year in prison he escaped before serving his sentence.

The outcome — last report said that he was free on $5,000 personal bond pending an extradition decision by Alabama authorities. As for the grandmother she has since died.

So if perchance this weird tale reaches the viewing screen and perchance I miss it maybe you can supply the epilogue. (Hum-m grandmothers were rough in those days. If you have any thoughts about selling any of your grandmother's belongings kiddies, you better forget it).

The other night after I had fallen asleep the wife gave me a poke in the ribs and asked, "How about it?"

"How about what?" I sleepily replied.

"You know!" she exclaimed.

Well I thought this question over and with all this thinking I again fell asleep only to be awakened with a poke in the ribs and the same question, "How about it?"

"How about what?" I again asked.

"Something you haven't done all month," she replied.

"Has it been that long?" I asked.

"Longer," she exclaimed.

"Hum-m-m, I hum-m-m, I guess you are right."

So I sleepily climbed out of bed in the wee small hours of the morning and lumbered down the hall to Sherri's room to see why she was crying. I stuck the bottle in her mouth and lumbered back to bed.

I'm glad I got that job over with for November. But some night in December I expect to be awakened with "How about it?"

Wished I Had Said That Department: Dr. Murray Bank, a much sought after Psychiatrist-Lecturer, claims that one way to a better life is "Stop lying to yourself."

How many times today have you lied to yourself? A simple statement but one that finds us all guilty of accomplishing.

Secondly, he claims that people who are afraid of old age should give old age a kick in the pants and get out and live.

From the above statements you can easily see I'm a Dr. Murray Bank's fan. I have five of his records (three of which are up in the Cloyne - Northbrook area - aren't they Marg) and two new ones I've recently bought. Dr. Banks is a psychiatrist who gives lectures all over the world and does an excellent job of mixing humour with psychiatry. All lectures on his records are given before a live audience and are well worth listening to.

Thought You Would Like To Know Dept. — There are only forty more shopping days before Christmas (of course this depends on when you read this).

At the end of this month a tabloid newspaper will be delivered to your doorstep or mailbox depending upon where you live. This tabloid paper will contain stories and pictures of what is going on in the schools in Hastings County. One page of this four page educational paper will contain pictures and stories from Marmora, Madoc Township, Madoc and Tweed Public Schools and C.H.S.S. I'm the editor for Centre Hastings and I think you will find the stories very interesting and informative. So look for your copy at the end of the month. (All homes will receive a copy).

After you have read this tabloid paper I would appreciate hearing from as many readers as possible as to its value. Communication between you and the school is very important in your child's education. (Note — This educational paper will be delivered in Hastings County only).

Well, I'm down to one pup. The pup I have left got hit by a car a couple of weeks ago but is making an excellent recovery. It's female and I still would like to give it away if anyone is still looking for a pup. (part collie, terrier and spaniel). The owners of the other two are well pleased with their pups.

CLOYNE

Mrs. Sarah Perry and Mrs. Louise King recently returned from an extensive trip across Canada. Departing from Malton Airport October 5th, they arrived in Vancouver and Mrs. King visited her daughter and son-in-law Fern and Brian McNulty in nearby New Westminster. Mrs. Perry visited her sister-in-law Nellie Meeks. Other highlights of the trip included: a visit to well-known Stanley Park, a ferry ride from Horseshoe Bay to Sechart Peninsula, and other points of interest. Leaving Vancouver via a new 747 Air Canada jet, they arrived in Malton where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Snider. The "jet set" returned to Cloyne, October 29th. Welcome home!

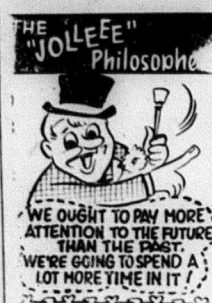

Education Europe is sponsoring a victory dance Saturday evening at N.A.E.C. following the Boys' Cossa Volleyball Tournament, November 11th.

In keeping with Junior Book Week, November 5th to 22nd, the Cloyne Library is having a mobile contest for boys and girls under age 13. Mobiles may be about any "Favourite book". Prizes will be awarded November 22nd so bring your mobile to the library before that date.

The Land O' Lakes Recreation Club will meet on Thursday evening, November 16th. Many important items are on the agenda and it is hoped that the meeting will be well attended.

Hunting

The hounds go away baying.

It was their hunting call.

Their master heard them saying,

"There are big tracks here this fall!"

Down the runway came a buck.

The hunter had meat to roast.

For his gun shot straight with luck.

Home he went to loudly boast.

Darlene Blackburn.

The men who hunt and kill the deer

Often do in case of fear.

The deer should have rights, to live like us.

There should be a law that says they must.

Some men feed them all summer long.

The season starts, they're up at dawn.

They shoot to kill and that's not fair

For its not their lives and they don't care.

MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES

"ATTENTION HUNTERS"

We require all your Deer and Moose Hides

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources in the Tweed District are again collecting deer and moose hides for the Indian Handicraft Industry.

The purpose of this programme is to utilize hides that are otherwise wasted. These hides will be collected by the Ministry of Natural Resources Offices throughout the District, and will then be taken to a tannery to be processed and then distributed to the Indian families in Northern Ontario.

We are also interested in collecting the lower jaw of as many deer as possible. These jaws will be used for valuable management information.

In return for the hide and lower jaw, we are giving a "hand cooker."

When donating the deer hides and jaws, please be sure to include your name, address, sex of deer and location or township where the deer was killed.

The hides and jaws will be collected at all Natural Resources (Lands & Forests) offices and also at the following places:

LOOKING BACK ...

50 YEARS AGO
November 22, 1922

Mr. Walter Rupert won the Carter scholarship for the County of Hastings for general proficiency in the Mid-Summer examination. The scholarship is valued at sixty dollars.

About nine o'clock Sunday evening, the ringing of the fire bell informed the members of the fire Co. that their services were in immediate demand. It was found that the large and substantial stables which span Deer Creek at the rear of the Haslip Hotel were in flames.

We are informed that within eight minutes after the ringing of the fire bell two streams of water were directed against the flames and although it was difficult to reach the flames directly on account of the building having its sides and roof covered with tin shingles yet the fire men were able to prevent the flames from extending to the adjacent buildings and to save the foundation timbers and the flooring. The horses and cattle within the building were also saved the only life lost being that of a dog. The fire department deserves great praise for the quickness with which the engine was brought into action and also for the fact that the engine had been recently overhauled and worked splendidly. We are still of the opinion that this village should have more equipment for fighting fire and we understand that the council is giving the matter careful consideration. Mr. Haslip informed "The Review" that the loss is partially covered by insurance. We are also pleased to learn that it is his intention to rebuild.

The dwelling house and contents belonging to Mr. O'Brien were destroyed by fire last Sunday. Owing to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien were in Madoc attending Church services and there were only a few children at home, very little, if any of the household effects were saved. "The Review" wishes to extend its sympathy to Mr. Haslip and Mr. O'Brien in the destruction of their property.

Of the various problems that confront the citizens of Madoc there is not one that bulks larger in the minds of the taxpayer than his annual tax. This tax has grown to such dimensions as to assume the character of a yearly rent to those who are so unfortunate as to own large houses. For illustration the tax on my house if capitalized would give me the large sum of $1700. This sum would enable a man to go into almost any kind of business for himself. The Canadian Manufacturers Association has a special committee at work studying the duplication of system of collection. If Madoc had a civic organization of some kind it would be possible to appoint special committees to collect data on every question affecting the welfare of its citizens and report their findings to the parent organization for discussion. Will some citizen please move in this matter.

24 YEARS AGO
November 4, 1948

Mr. R. S. Cheeseman, of Ottawa, formerly of Deloro, is among the list of successful candidates who recently received the degree of B. of Sc. from Queen's University. Graduation exercises were held on Saturday last.

W. C. Mikel, of Belleville, has proposed a plan for amalgamating the town of Trenton and the city of Belleville into one corporation. The ten miles between the two places is thickly populated and Mr. Mikel's proposal was to name the 200,000 city "The City of Quinte". Belleville Council gave the plan no serious consideration.

About 25 merchants and power users of Madoc Village attended a meeting with the Madoc Village Hydro Commission yesterday afternoon. The purpose of the gathering was to discuss the power shortage and to discuss means of reducing the consumption here. Further reductions have been made by the Ontario Hydro Commission and the Village is using more than its quota. It was pointed out to those present that the Domestic Consumers use about 65 per cent of the power and that the high point of the day is between 11 a.m. and 12 noon and between 5 and 6 p.m. At these hours motors, as well as electric stoves, water heaters, hot plates, etc. are in use causing the highest peak of the day. Several suggestions were offered, but it was felt by the majority present that if the power was shut off when it is used most, we would be able to reach our quota with fewer cut-offs. It was also pointed out that if we are below our quota one day it will not be necessary to have any cut offs the day following. Commencing next week we will publish a list showing the amount of power used each day, for the week previous along with our daily quota. One of the easiest ways householders can conserve power is by shutting off their hot water during the day. Where this has been tried out, it is claimed there is a plentiful supply of hot water for average daytime use. Commencing Monday, November 8, the new cut-off periods will come into effect as follows: 11 a.m. to 12 noon and between 5 to 6 p.m. as necessary to come within our quota.

Tuesday evening was a red letter event in the history of the Kiwanis Club of Madoc, when the official Charter was presented to the Club by Ken Greenaway, of Guelph, Governor of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime District. In an interesting address the Governor referred to the objects of the Kiwanis International and the high ideals of what Kiwanians stand for. Following a delicious chicken dinner served by the ladies of the Catholic Church to over 200 Kiwanians and their wives, representing twelve different Ontario Clubs, Bruce Latimer, Lieut.-Gov. of this district was Master of Ceremonies for a lengthy program, consisting of presentations, vocal numbers and addresses. The Belleville Club, which sponsored the Madoc Club was congratulated for their fine work and a great deal of credit was given Mark Vanner, Chairman of the sponsoring Club. The guests were welcomed to Madoc by Warden. Reeve West, a member of the Madoc Club, who said he had felt for a long time that a Club of this kind was needed in Madoc, and at last this had been accomplished.

Married — Mr. and Mrs. A. Mitchell, of Belleville, announce the marriage of their daughter, Joyce Leola, to Douglas Edward Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson, of Madoc, which took place at Christ Church, Belleville, on October 23rd, 1948.

15 YEARS AGO
November 7, 1957

High School News — Last Thursday, October 31, the girls of the Madoc Senior and Junior went to play volleyball at Stirling, our last games for the championship. We all hopped into the cars that were to transport us to the game. We were quite nervous, but very much excited. Arriving finally at the Juniors awaited for game, the Juniors played the first game, hopes high, because in the last two games they had only been beaten by one point. However, the tide turned about half way through the game, and Stirling won. Next the "so far undefeated" Seniors came to the floor, all looking very pale and nervous. However, their fears were in vain, and we won the Central Hastings Senior Volleyball Championship by a victory of 25-21. Singing our school song and yelling our cheers in town, we proudly came home, Miss West carefully carrying the silver cup. The whole school wishes Miss West our heartfelt congratulations and also to the teams under her coaching. In the four years Miss West has been here, we have won 3 Championships in Volleyball, one C.O.S.S.A. and two Central Hastings.

Concluding a successful season during which over 5,000 persons have visited the site, the old O'Hara Mill Conservation Area north of Madoc, will be officially closed for the winter months on Sunday. The old mill site has been restored as a conservation area and site of historical interest by the Moira River Conservation Authority and was officially opened on July 24th of this year. Since that time the area has been a popular one for picnickers and on many Sundays all 30 picnic tables were reported in use. Michael Chubb, field officer for the Conservation Authority, states that due to the lateness of the season, Sunday will be the closing of the area for the year. It will be reopened in the Spring where additional tables will be placed and more barbecues constructed.

A very enjoyable Halloween party was held in Rigg's school on Thursday, October 31st, sponsored by the Harts-Rigg's Women's Institute. The many novel and attractive costumes were judged and the following were given suitable prizes. The best costume worn by six-year-old and under; Sandra Cassidy; Grades 1 and 2, Gene Meraw; Grades 3 and 4, Charles Cassidy; Grades 5 and 6, Harry Willemssen; Grades 7 and 8, Isobel Broadworth, Leona Woods; Comic Costume, Ronnie Broadworth; Best Couple, Leona Woods, Isobel Broadworth; Best Costume in Parade, 1st, Helen Fleming; 2nd, Judy Feeney. Lunch was served and candy treats for the children, bringing to a close a very happy evening.

Weddings — St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was the setting on Saturday, November 2, at 2 p.m., for a pretty but quiet autumn wedding, when the Reverend F. E. Madden, pastor of the church, united in a double-ring ceremony, Ila Mae Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Lucas, of Actinolite, Ontario, to Leo Joseph Provost, Marmora, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Provost. The traditional wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Robert Sanderson.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 26, at 2:30 p.m., in St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, by the Rev. Richard Fleming, Rector of Marmora, when Edna Mae Sharon Derry, of Eldorado, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Derry, Eldorado, became the bride of Raymond Joseph Dombroskie, of Barry's Bay, son of Mrs. F. Dombroskie, of Aymer, Quebec, and the late Mr. Andy Dombroskie. Mrs. Ayilworth, church organist, provided the wedding music.

If you don't recognize this man, it's time you saw us about a Cash-flow Loan.

Cash-flow. It's Toronto Dominion's modern way to borrow. Here's how it works.

You're probably basing many of your major expenditures on a cash-flow system right now. For example, you figure how much money you'll have coming in over a period of a year, and how much you plan to spend during the same period.

This difference between income and expenditure is your guide to the amount you may comfortably borrow.

Cash-flow is the realistic way to borrow because it's based mainly on what you earn, not what you own. If you feel you'd like to get to know Sir John A. a little better, (he's on Canada's new tens) drop in and see your Toronto Dominion Bank Manager, he'll introduce you—the Cash-flow way.

Borrow the TD way... and smile all the way from the bank.

A party was held at the Community Hall recently in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bailey who were married in August. They were presented with a purse of money from the community and music was supplied by Mr. Tom Bronson, Mr.

Elmer Holmes and Mr. Ken Bronson of Tweed for dancing.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kavanagh a week ago Saturday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fish, Peterborough and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Galloher, Madoc. For supper that Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kavanagh and girls, Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Alf Bongard, Norwood were Friday afternoon callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kavanagh attended the funeral of Miss Elsie Deline, Baptiste Lake on Tuesday afternoon at Bancroft. Miss Deline was Mrs. Kavanagh's sister.

Miss Bonnie Holmes, Belleville is spending a week's holiday with her mother, Mrs. Gordon Holmes.

Mrs. C. B. McCoy is visiting her sister, Miss Laura Blaney, Toronto this week.

Miss Linda in't Veld, Ottawa spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Cor. in't Veld and Judy.

Mrs. Alex Clarke and Lawrence are spending this week with Mrs. Johnny Walker and Allan, Queensboro while Mr. Walker is hunting.

Saturday was a busy day in Cooper as a great number of hunters made their way to their hunting camps.

It was heard that an inexperienced hunter from here lost his way while hunting on a Township farm on Monday. Could it be that the brother-in-law of the editor was trying to make the news — one way or another.

Mrs. Frank Parks spent Sunday with Mrs. Rex Rollins. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fitzgerald were a week ago Saturday night supper visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Francis and Tish, R.R. 5, Madoc.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wilson on the birth of their son born at Belleville General Hospital last Wednesday.

BIRTH

WILSON — Mac and Kay Wilson of R.R. 2, Madoc are pleased to announce the birth of their son Ashley William, on Wednesday, November 1st, 1972, at Belleville General Hospital. Weight, 7 lbs., 5 oz. A brother for Robin.

WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. WILFRED A. GARRAH

GARRAH - FEENEY
Father Leo Byrne, assisted by Father Gerald Byrne, Father J. J. Feeney and Father P. Murphy officiated at a concelebrated nuptial mass in Sacred Heart of Mary Church, Madoc, on Saturday, October 14th, 1972 at twelve noon when Mary Judith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Feeney, R.R. 2, Madoc, was united in marriage to Wilfred A. Garrah, son of Mr. Ira Garrah of Howe Island and the late Mrs. Mary Garrah.

The church was decorated with large bouquets of rust mums, yellow daisies, white roses, gladioli and white feathery mums.

Wedding music was played by Mr. John Murphy, who accompanied the soloists Miss Dorothy Peters and Miss Joan Donaldson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of polyester crepe styled with a high waist and a straight skirt. The full sleeves were gathered to a wide cuff with covered buttons and ruffles at the wrist. A sleeveless overcoat edged with French guilpore lace featured a hood trimmed with matching lace. This lace trim was carried into the train which formed at the back of the coat. She carried a bouquet of gladioli and stephanotis with trailing ivy.

Mrs. Larry Byrne of Belleville was her sister's matron of honour, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Lloyd Sarginson of Toronto, Mrs. James Ryan Jr. of Renfrew, nursing classmates of the bride, and Mary Elizabeth Feeney, sister of the bride, while Junior bridesmaids were Miss Caroline Feeney, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Cynthia Lawrence of Toronto, cousin of the bride.

The bridesmaids gowns were in two shades of mandarin fashioned identical to the brides dress, but with straight sleeves. They carried bouquets of yellow shasta daisies, bronze mums and mandarin talisman roses with loops of brown velvet ribbon through the flowers and flowing streamers of matching ribbon.

Best man was James McReynolds of Howe Island, and ushers were Bernard Quinn of Kingston, Peter Bliss of Bath, all friends of the groom, and Larry Byrne of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride.

The reception was held in the parish hall. The mother of the bride received the guests in a floor-length gown featuring a green velvet skirt, with a bodice and full sleeves of lime green chiffon. A fur stole, matching accessories and a corsage of mandarin roses completed her ensemble. Assisting, Mrs. Evelyn Martin sister of the groom's father, wore a mauve crimp dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The brides table was centered with a three-tiered round cake, decorated all in white, with silver leaves and topped with a dainty bowl of live flowers to match the bride's bouquet.

For the wedding trip to the Eastern New England States and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a double knit dress with a dark brown skirt and a bodice of brown and white stripes, completed with a clutch coat and brown accessories. A corsage of yellow shasta daisies complimented her outfit.

Out of town guests were present from Kingston, Howe Island, Brantford, Gananoque, Toronto, Belleville and Rochester, N.Y.

The couple are residing at 235 Hawthorne Ave., Kingston, Ontario.

WHAT IS A CONSERVATION AUTHORITY?

(Submitted by W. T. Lawson, Secretary-Treasurer, Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority)

Conservation Authorities are an outgrowth started by a small group of dedicated citizens in south eastern Ontario who became very perturbed by the inaction of government in regard to flooding, land erosion and misuse of resources occurring at an ever-increasing rate in the province. This small, but ever enlarging, band of private citizens who financed their own endeavours made such an impact on the government of the day and the province as a whole, that by simple public recognition, and no little pressure, it was able to induce the government to take a hard look, make a study, and the outcome was the passing of the Conservation Authorities Act in the year 1946 - twenty-six years ago.

The government set up the Conservation Authorities on a watershed basis as autonomous bodies and embodied legislation that made Conservation Authorities partners with the government in being the vehicle at the local citizen level receiving grants which matched local contributions on a 50/50 basis. Little did the government of the day realize that they had built much better than they even knew or had ever visualized at that time.

Twenty-five years of Conservation Authority activity is now history - years full of change and of challenge to everyone charged with responsibility for environmental management. The Conservation Authorities of Ontario are prepared to meet the changes and challenges in the years ahead.

Conservation Authorities had a trying time in the first fifteen years with its new partner - the Authorities have been moved to four new departments under six different ministers, each trying to implement a new thrust - a new concept or a new system - but John Q. Public, who makes up the backbone of Authorities, clung with bulldog tenacity to the one main theme which is the underlying strength of properly formed dedicated public groups - protection of the natural resources and the environment.

The Authorities expanded their role in a careful, shrewd manner, since they were putting their local tax dollars into every project that was innovative, and when the big partner balked, time after time, they went it alone and, by example, proved to their sometimes reluctant partner that their new and expanded role filled a need in their watershed.

The Government, recognizing the viability of Authorities, got deeper into the partnership by setting up a small branch of experts to guide and counsel authorities who were now expanding to include larger reservoirs, flood control dams, parks, recreation, outdoor education, fish hatcheries, tree nurseries, and lately into management of scenic, cultural, historic, and conservation sites through the vehicle of the heritage foundation. The Authorities have still to convince the government that assistance should be forthcoming for such projects as Black Creek Pioneer Village - despite the fact that 1/4 of a million people per year from not only metropolitan Toronto, but the whole of the province, as well as the United States, and other provinces of Canada, pass through this reconstructed historical village in the centre of a two and a half million people metropolis. This outstanding example of our past is supported 100 per cent by fees collected at the gate, and the deficit is picked up by the Metro Toronto and Region Conservation Authority.

In September of 1970, at the Biennial Conference at Sudbury, the Conservation Authorities of Ontario presented a position paper to the province entitled "who speaks for our environment" . . . many months before there was even a department of the environment in Ontario. A select committee was appointed to study Conservation, and a very comprehensive report was submitted to the Government in 1967.

The select committee on Conservation Authorities endorses the fundamental thoughts and basic knowledge of the conservation Authorities' approach to the management of our renewable natural resources.

Environmental management and involvement of people are two subjects of deepest concern to all governments across Canada today.

However, they are not new subjects to the Government of Ontario. As in so many other instances, Ontario has pointed the way, not only for other provinces, most recently Manitoba, but for the federal government also. Three outstanding examples are in the fields of pollution control, farm drainage, and environmental management.

The Conservation Authorities Act embodies all the popular management ideas that today are put forward with so much emotionalism as basic needs for a quality environment. But, Conservation Authorities have been practicing environmental management through water control and good land, forestry and wildlife management for a quarter of a century.

In addition, Authorities have provided recreation facilities in over 275 Conservation areas and they have acquired 4,125 acres of scenic land on the Niagara Escarpment. Their combined land holdings total more than 180,000 acres, all of which are, or shortly will be open to some form of recreation. Most of these lands would have been unavailable to the public had it not been for the foresight of the Government of Ontario in passing the Act 26 years ago.

The Authorities are tapping local initiatives and interest to further the total Conservation Program of the province. Authorities function as co-ordinators of the various services and facilities available from the various government departments for their own watershed area. Authorities are in an excellent position to know the needs and problems at the local level and how the various services can best be used. Regardless of which department is assigned responsibility for the administration of the Conservation Authorities Act: For Authorities to be successful in translating provincial policies for conservation, the environment, and resources management, it will be essential for the authorities to work with all departments of government.

The Government of Ontario has never been able to develop a vehicle better suited to keeping a finger on the pulse of John Q. Public right from the village pump through to the provincial level and it has no better Public Relations Officer to advise it on testing new ideas in the environmental field than Conservation Authorities. Conservation Authorities are made up of varied public spirited individual people - Not civil servants - therefore they cannot be structured like a Department of Government.

It is only within the last few months that the Conservation Authorities were, after many months of anxiety, relieved to learn that in the recent shuffling at Queen's Park, they would still remain as viable, or perhaps more viable, than before. We now come under the Ministry of Natural Resources, and we can truly say that finally we can write a letter to our Minister asking for Authorizations, without it going through at least six different people.

O.P.P. REPORT

Since last Friday there were six property damage accidents resulting in a total of $4,537.00 damages.

Halloween did not prove to be too busy for the officers of this detachment. There were only seven complaints in connection with egg throwing, damaged signs and one window broken in a house.

Four persons were charged with "Drive while Under Suspension" contrary to the provisions of the Criminal Code of Canada.

Since October 27th, there were 21 charges laid under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario and three impaired drivers were charged.

Wildfire damage, not in connection with Halloween pranks, resulted in $252.00 property damages.

Four juveniles were reported missing but all have returned home.

Property valued at $844.56 was stolen as the result of three break, enter and thefts.

Two persons were jointly charged with "Theft of Telecommunications" contrary to the Criminal Code. They are alleged to have made 30 phone calls during the period of July 4th, 1972 to September 7th, 1972 using a stolen telephone credit card. The total cost of the phone calls amounted to $100.71.

Traffic control was carried out for two funeral processions crossing dangerous intersections, along with many other general occurrences such as neighbour disputes, noisy children, alleged threats, disturbances and one abandoned house burned in Madoc Township on the 1st day of November.

In Provincial Court (Criminal Division) Madoc there were 15 convictions recorded on Criminal Code charges and Liquor Charges combined.

Motorists . . . your car, if it is a fairly new model, has a number of built-in safety features. But, the most important feature in any automobile is an alert, courteous, and competent driver who knows the rules of the road . . . and observes them . . . all the time.

Complete

diets . . .

Marie-Paul Green
Director - Consumer Affairs Dept.

A balanced diet should include, each day, some animal protein.
Different amino acids are combined in various amounts to form the many proteins found in foods. Eight of these amino acids are necessary to maintain health. Proteins which contain these eight essential amino acids are called "complete proteins", and come from animal sources: meat, fish, poultry, eggs, milk, cheese.
Certain plants are particularly high in protein and are called "meat alternates". These are dried peas, dried beans, soybeans, lentils and nuts. Although these plants contain a high amount of protein, it is incomplete because plants do not contain all the essential amino acids required by the body. To obtain adequate protein from plants alone requires a knowledge of the amino acid composition of each.

MISSIONARIES TO SPEAK AT MADOC

Mr. and Mrs. Lohnes are both accomplished musicians. Their musical abilities as vocalists, as well as their ability to perform on piano, organ and accordion, have been assets to their missionary outreach. In Burundi they have made recordings for broadcasts over Radio COR-DAC, a Christian radio station

The Rev. Keith Lohnes, missionary to the Central African country of Burundi will be the guest speaker at the Madoc Wesleyan Methodist Church at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 29th.

Missionary work is more than open-air meetings, lions, tigers, snakes, and exploring virgin territory, reports Mr. Lohnes.

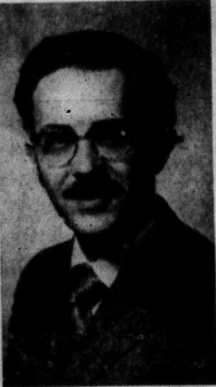

MRS. G. LOHNES

jointly sponsored by several missionary organizations in Central Africa.

The Lohneses began missionary work in Burundi in 1970 following language study in Belgium. Mr. Lohnes studied at Queens University in Kingston, Ontario, and is a graduate of Roberts Wesleyan College, North Chili, New York. In 1972 he received a license to practice as a certified public accountant in Burundi.

The public is invited to this missionary service.

REV. KEITH LOHNES

Some of the work that Mr. Lohnes has undertaken during his first term of missionary service has included the accounting and financial responsibilities for the mission, a missionary school and a hospital. In addition he has often travelled in evangelistic services throughout the country. Upon one occasion he accompanied a group of national church leaders on a three-day safari to new territory where people were asking for a church to be started.

SENIOR CITIZENS REPORT

by Mary Ann Holmes

Inclement weather resulted in only 36 members signing the attendance book at the regular meeting of the Madoc and District Senior Citizens Club No. 473 last Wednesday, November 8th, which was held in the United Church basement.

President, Mrs. Broadworth, spoke a word of welcome to all and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. Broadworth then gave several short humorous readings. The President also read an interesting story written by Mr. Manley Baumhour, which was greatly enjoyed.

A discussion was held regarding the Club's annual Christmas party and a bus trip to be taken in the near future. Final plans are to be made at the next meeting.

The meeting was then turned over for the playing of various games.

Lunch and a social half hour brought the meeting to a close. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 22nd, when Hart's-Rigg's Women's Institute ladies will entertain the Club. The lunch committee for this meeting will be Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Naylor, Mrs. Fox, Miss Raney, Mrs. Mary Ann Holmes, Mrs. Margaret Blakely, Mrs. Grace Gordon, Mrs. Harry Declair and Mr. Harry Declair.

ELECTIONS FOR ALL SEATS IN HUNTINGDON

Keith Morgan, driver of this Mustang escaped serious injury when it was extensively damaged.

PERSONS ESCAPE INJURY IN FOUR-VEHICLE CRASH

Twenty-five year old Keith Morgan of Waterloo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morgan of Madoc, narrowly escaped serious injury when he was involved in a four-vehicle crash on Saturday afternoon, November 11th.

According to Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, the Morgan vehicle, a 1968 Ford Mustang, was heading north on Highway 62, 2 1/2 miles south of the C.N.R. tracks at Eldorado, at 3:15 p.m. when it first struck the side of a southbound 1970 pick-up truck driven by William Hopkins of New Jersey, and, in turn, then struck the two southbound vehicles following behind, a 1972 Jeep pick-up and a 1966 Valiant. The Jeep was driven by Michael Kearns of Pennsylvania, while Frederick Nokes of Trenton was driving the fourth vehicle. Total damages resulting to the vehicles was estimated at $5,305.00, of which $2,000 was to the Mustang.

Although there were no serious injuries, four persons were taken to the Belleville General Hospital with cuts, bruises and complaints of pain. Those injured were Michael Kearns, 17; Ernest Stahl, 45, of New Jersey; Howard Kearns, 40, of Pennsylvania; and Keith Morgan. All were treated and later released.

Constable Helm of the Madoc Detachment investigated the occurrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stein Celebrate Silver Anniversary

On Saturday, October 7th, 1972 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stein were entertained at a 25th Wedding Anniversary Party given in their honour by their family.

Mrs. Stein, the former Ethel Keller, oldest daughter of Edward Keller and the late Loretta Keller Schutt, was united in marriage to Fred Stein, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stein of Denbigh on October 8th, 1947 by Rev. Vause at the Luther Parsonage, Eganville, Ontario.

Music for the dance was supplied by Elmer Holmes and Tom and Kennie Bronson of Tweed. During the course of the evening, Ethel and Fred were seated under bursting balloons, after which Miss Lynda West gave a suitable address. The couple was then presented with a china cabinet and a lazyboy platform rocker from their brothers and sisters, a beautiful set of dishes from their sons and daughters and a bouquet of flowers set in a tea service from their grandsons. They also received numerous other lovely gifts, cards and congratulations from their many friends and relatives in attendance.

Also present were their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. William Leidtke. Ethel and Fred then voiced their appreciation to everyone.

A delicious lunch was then served.

Out of town guests were present from Pembroke, Hardwood Lake, Schutt, Denbigh, Toronto, Belleville, Eannockburn, Cooper, Madoc, Eldorado, Tweed and Palmer Rapids.

Euchre Winners

At the Euchre Party held in the Queensboro W.I. Hall on Friday evening, October 27th, Mrs. Woodford Blakely won both the ladies' high and the door prize. Allan Ramsay won the mens high and John Parks the lone hands. Other winners were Mrs. Roy Rollins and Mrs. John Alexander. Lunch was served by the members of the W.I.

On Friday evening, November 10th, there were 7 1/2 tables played at the Euchre Party in the W.I. Hall with Mrs. Joe Kehoe getting the door prize. Mrs. Woodford Blakely won both ladies high and lone hands. The mens high was won by Charlie Smith. Other prizes went to Mrs. Fred Bosley and Mrs. John Alexander. Lunch was served by the ladies.

MADOC MIXED BOWLING

Although scores were not as high as usual some of last weeks games were close right up to the last frame or two. The Farrow family were quite in evidence as the Happy Gang shut out the Misfits. Clarence with 631 and a big 331 single in the last game and Lavina's 208 Single were the big difference in a close battle. Don Forestell 603 (210) and Leland Richardson 563 (218) were the best for the Misfits. Joe Bossio 641 (229) and Sheila Bird 608 (217) led the Volunteers to a 7 point win over the Lucky Sevens who bowled well below their average for the night. Leo Coveney kept up his consistent bowling in leading the Twisters to 5 - 2 win over the Kingpins with 681 (245) assisted by Joe Foley 613 (238) and Joe Mallia 603. Good first games by Ron Reid (227), Betty Stevens (220) and Leon Bernier (211) helped the Kingpins take the game but faded in the last two to end up short of victory. Good singles by Bob Hiltz (228), Pearl Foley (224) and Lucy Whiteman (202) helped their teams in some of the close games.

O.P.P. Sponsor Benefit Dance

The Madoc Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police are taking their part in offering support of the Centre Hastings Medical Centre project by holding a benefit dance.

The event will be held this Saturday evening, November 18th, in the Kiwanis Centre, with all proceeds being turned over to the Medical Centre committee. An orchestra, The Knightsmen from Tweed, has been engaged to provide music for dancing. Tickets are being sold in advance by all officers of the O.P.P. Admission, $5.00 per couple, includes a buffet lunch and prizes.

This is a good chance to enjoy an evening out while supporting a worthy cause.

Remembrance Day Service Well Attended

Led by the Centre Hastings Cadet Band, a number of ex-service personnel and other members of Madoc Legion Branch 363 paraded to the cenotaph for the annual Remembrance Day service on Saturday morning despite the sprinkling rain which persisted throughout the program.

The service was conducted by Reverend Capt. James H. Thompson, assisted by Reverend D. W. Heard. Following the sounding of the Last Post and Revellie by the Centre Hastings Cadet Band, the placing of the wreaths on the cenotaph took place, Reverend Thompson gave a fitting address.

Several interested citizens and dignitaries were also in attendance, including Reeve T. C. Barton and Mrs. Barton, Miss O. G. Ashe, Miss Lamoine West, Reverend W. Sedgwick and others.

A CURIOUS MIXTURE OF BOOS AND CHEERS

By BILL SMILEY

Now that we've all settled down after that abortion of an election, we can get back to the important things of life: what's for dinner; our byrnie; raking the last of the blasted leaves; dusting off the curling boots; and worrying about our kids.

Just before we bury the whole unpleasant mess, however, may I promise that I will make no more election predictions? Oh, I was right. I warned that the Canadian people are among the most volatile in the world when it comes to politics. They proved it.

And I prophesied that the Tories and NDP would gain, and that it would be the Liberals again with a minority government. But they didn't have to take me so seriously. I didn't mean that size of a minority. From now on, I shall desist from making forecasts, as it seems to put the hex on things.

However, I take back none of what I said. Mr. Trudeau never did have the common touch, the politician's instinct. Stanfield still sounds as though he'd got both feet into one leg of his long-johns. And Mr. Lewis was never more smarmy than when the returns were coming in.

Despite my disenchantment, at the last moment I decided to vote Liberal, chiefly because of fear that what did happen might happen. A ship of state with no rudder, two wheelmen fighting for the wheel, and the winds of change blowing up into a typhoon.

Some riding results were of particular interest to me. I was glad to see that my old friend Ross Whitcher, with whom I shared a couple of campaigns when we were mere boys, was one of the Lucky Liberals to squeak in.

I was sorry to see another old friend, Perry Ryan, who represented Toronto Spadina for years, got the axe. He made the political mistake of standing by his principles, and quit the Liberals for the Tories when he couldn't agree with policy. A pity.

I was also sorry to see Paul Hellyer elected. He is a politician whose ego seems equalled only by his ambition. The record: Ran for Liberal leadership. Beaten. Liberal cabinet minister. Quit. Founded Action Canada — a flop. Joined the Conservatives. He may have great abilities, but I'll never forgive him for unifying the armed forces.

You see how little our vote depends on reason. I mentioned those three to suggest what a fickle creature the average Canadian voter is. I'd have voted for Whitcher, Liberal, for old times' sake. For Ryan, Conservative, because he's a good man. And against Hellyer, Conservative, because of his many-coloured coat.

There's an old-fashioned idea that Canadians are a reserved, conservative people, because we live in a stern and rigorous climate, and aren't given much to either dancing or rioting in the streets.

The idea is completely unfounded. True, we don't do much of anything in the streets for six months a year, except scuffle along, cursing, noses dripping.

But behind those steady, grey facades that others see live the real Canadians: pulsing, passionate; not grey but purple. In fact, sometimes that purple peeps through, usually in those same noses.

Perhaps the most obvious example to illustrate the wild, emotional, inner Canadian is the Canada-Russia hockey series of recent fame.

When our team was getting clobbered, most of us went around in a surly, cynical, almost vicious mood, snarling at wives and children, scoffing at our players, denigrating that vast, philanthropic institution, the NHL. You see, we were suffering. Our pride was hurt in the way that the pride of no mere Latin could be hurt.

But when our team began to win we showed our true selves, exuberant, friendly, joyous, actually cheering out loud, throwing our arms around complete strangers.

Oh, it did the heart good, I can tell you, to see the Canadian character as it really is. None of this "good losers" nonsense of other northern races. Our hearts were in every cross-check and every one of us was there, at least in spirit, as our boys, at the winning goal, kissed each other and hugged each other and slobbered over each other.

Show me another nation that can boo its "boys" in defeat and cheer them in victory, as we did, and I'll show you another nation with real heart.

And that's what we're like in elections. All heart. No brains. Give us a brilliant, colourful prime minister and we cheer him to the rafters. As long as he's winning. We're a funny lot.

Ban On Three-quart Paper Milk Containers

A province-wide ban on three-quart paper milk containers will go into effect on November 1st, 1973, Ontario's Environment Minister James Auld announced last week.

"The motivation behind this action is the same as for the stand we took against the disposable plastic milk jug earlier this year," said Mr. Auld. "We are trying to ease the province's waste disposal burden."

The one-year's time lag will allow dairies to use up existing stocks of the plasticized-paper containers and make other adjustments to the new regulations, Mr. Auld pointed out. "This gradual phase-out is preferable to an immediate ban. Such sudden action aggravates waste disposal problems as manufacturers and suppliers try to dump their stocks all at once," he said. "We have no cause to force a severe and unnecessary economic loss on these people."

"If it is found that use of this container increases or it begins to encroach other containers during this interim period, the situation could be reviewed and, if necessary, the effective date of the ban moved forward," he cautioned.

"Of course," Mr. Auld added, "the whole subject of milk containers will be examined by the Ministry's Task Force on Solid Waste and its special investigative committees."

Cooper and Remington W.I.

The October meeting of the Cooper & Remington W.I. was held at the Community Centre in the form of a Halloween party. The president, Mrs. Gordon Holmes dressed as a boy gave a monologue, "An essay on a boys anatomy," as an opening followed by everyone whistling the Institute Ode and repeating the Mary Stewart Collect.

Mrs. Fred Stein, convener of Cultural Activities conducted the programme. The members of the Cultural Activities Committee presented a play, "Planning a Halloween Party," written by Mrs. Arthur Holmes, Queensboro. The masquerade followed with Mrs. Stan Moorcroft and Mrs. Durwood McCoy acting as judges. Several prizes were given out and a prize for all the children present. A sing song of Halloween songs conducted by Mrs. Claude Keene followed.

Mrs. Gordon Holmes conducted the business part of the meeting. The Roll Call answered by "Name your hobby and display it," showed many crocheted articles as well as other items, with an attendance of 16 adults and 8 children. The meeting closed with "O Canada" and a lovely lunch was served by the Committee.

LIFE INSURANCE (?) or DEATH PROTECTION

(T. W. MARTIN)

Following is a brief discussion of what should rightfully be called Death Protection, but in the strange world of the "life insurance" industry the name gets turned around. The subject of life insurance is very complex — but only if you let the agent persuade you that it is. On the other hand, death protection, even though we are talking about the very same subject, is very simple, and straightforward, if you and the life insurance agent will let it be so.

Insurance is simply a means of sharing among a number of people a financial risk too great to be carried by one man. Death protection is only needed to replace the future economic value of a person in the event he dies a premature death.

Keeping the above two points in mind, let us look at death protection (life insurance) as informed buyers of a sometimes necessary commodity. This article will be written in a number of separate series, over a period of time. The completed article may be obtained by contacting your Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food office, Stirling.

PART I UNDERSTANDING THE FACTS

Pure insurance is what we find in the fire insurance business. When you insure your house against fire you pay $x for each $1,000 worth of protection at the beginning of each period. If, at the end of a year your house has not burned down, you lose your $x. Your money was paid for a service which was the protection of your home for one year. This protection service was provided, and therefore there is no reason why you would expect to get any back.

The death protection (life insurance) which most people have combines a savings account along with a protection feature. This is the first mistake most people make. When you purchase death protection (life insurance) you should purchase protection only. Any savings account which you might have should be completely separate. There are many reasons why this is so, but the basic point is this — you cannot live and die at the same time. If you have the protection-plus-savings form of insurance, there are two possibilities. (a) If you live, you can cash your policy in, and collect the "savings" portion. (b) If you die, your beneficiaries collect the face value. However, as yet there is no way that you can live and die at the same time. Therefore, by combining savings and protection in one policy, you are bound to lose either your savings or your protection, and there is no way you can escape this fact.

The above is one reason only why you should buy pure protection and keep your savings separate, even though there is a relation to the next point. When you purchase protection-plus-savings, the premium you pay, in the initial years at least, is much higher than that for pure protection only. The younger man with a family and other debt commitments too often pays too much for too little. By buying pure protection only he can cover his death protection adequately, and at a much lower rate. In future articles we will compare the costs of different types of policies, and show that this pure protection is not the most expensive as many agents will try and persuade you. In the last article we will also show how you can have your protection, and your savings. This method is also a much better investment, and at a lower cost, particularly at a younger age. Keep in mind, that really a life cannot be insured. Death is inevitable. Death protection (life insurance) can reasonably do one thing, and that is provide for the future economic value of a man should he meet premature death.

WARBLE FLY CONTROL

Each year hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost due to damage done by the Warble Grub to the hides of beef and dairy cattle. The holes in the hide mean that the hide is unsuitable for leather. In addition to this obvious loss, there are losses for the producer. Namely a lowered rate of growth and a lower market price. How can you avoid this loss? By the use of systemic insecticides — either by spray or pour-on methods. The spray method requires a high pressure sprayer. The Pour-On-Method is easier as you simply pour a measured amount of the insecticide along the backbone of the animal. Now is the time to treat your cattle.

Present plans are to treat some of the cattle coming off the Pancake Hill Pasture Farm, especially those cattle that will be held over winter. This will give us some comparative results within the county.

(but not necessarily)
(By BEV. BROWNING)

The best way to write this column is to write whatever comes into my mind at the present moment. (Whoops, better not do that. My last week's column has been banned in Huntingdon Township already.)

Well with winter right around the corner it might be best to get those plugs checked, those points replaced and those rear tires replaced with snow tires. It might also be a good idea to throw two or three hundred pounds in the trunk to give that rear end a little weight.

Let's see, I haven't had the points replaced, the plugs checked or the snow tires put on. As for the weight in the trunk, I think I'll approach my mother-in-law and see what she's doing this winter. She said she had a lot of time on her hands. I'd ask my own mother, but she is already holding my sister's Toyota on the road.

Good old winter. I have nightmares about snowplows filling in my driveway after I have shovelled it out. Right now they are probably sharpening up the old blade and taking practice runs while I'm not home.

Congratulations to Mr. Robert McCoy on his 79th birthday last Monday. May you have many, many more Robert.

I hear one of our retired teachers (or was that 'tired' teachers) Mrs. Earla Lavender had an operation recently. Was it a girl or a boy, Earla? All kidding aside, Earla I wish you a speedy recovery. (As for that "thing" you wanted me to identify, the custodians threw it out before I could find out what it was. They must have figured it was dead.)

The van Dykes have another girl. That is, the van Dyke's two; the Brownings one. The Brownings' had a girl; the van Dykes had a girl. The Brownings' dog had pups, a female and two males; the van Dykes dog had pups, a female and two males. The van Dykes have another girl; I can almost bet what the Brownings' new addition will be next spring.

I'm going to have to write two columns. One will be the original while the second column will explain the original.

I had a few readers tell me last week they couldn't figure out the point of the first few paragraphs in last week's column. I even sat in one household last Friday evening telling the story of Jack in The Beanstalk.

If you can't make heads or tails of my chatter forget it and go on to something more interesting.

Constable Hawley has been carrying out an interesting experiment with the junior and senior grades in the area. He has each class identify somebody such as their teacher. The teacher leaves the room or area and the class must identify the teacher as to height, approximate age, clothes their wearing, way they comb their hair, identifying objects like watches, rings, ties, etc. They give this information as if they are a witness identifying a suspect.

One class identified yours truly and did an excellent job except for one thing. The class had seen me several times that morning working with classes in the surrounding area. The one thing they missed was the colour of my shirt. They said it was gold and I was wearing a dark wine coloured shirt. (Boy I hope they don't turn out to be deer hunters — how can you miss a red shirt?)

They got the difficult things such as height, the way I comb my hair and that I wear my watch on the inside of my wrist. (How can you miss a red shirt?)

So parents watch your children sometimes say they see is not always true; but it's not completely false.

An interesting experiment. Try it someday. See how observant you are.

The Tabloid paper being published at the end of the month will be called EducationHastings. The village papers will be delivered by students to all households while the rural areas will receive their copy by mail. So look for it on November 29th or 30th and read what is going on in Hastings County in the education field.

The wife said last Saturday she had lots to do: like washing, vacuuming, shopping and packing my suitcase. She sure has a sense of humour. (I think).

Wished I'd Said That Department: "If you want to commit murder — murder your worries. For every worry you have there is a solution. Quit worrying about all the yesterdays and all the frightful tomorrows. Live one day at a time" (Dr. Murray Banks).

A special happy birthday to my mother on her sixty-fourth birthday on the 15th. Sorry I couldn't be there to blow out the candles.

Till next week, "think happy thoughts". As it says, "Mostly About Something, But Not Necessarily."

HUNTERS 10% SUCCESSFUL

The Ministry of Natural Resources office at Tweed reports a ten per cent successful hunt at the close of the first week of this year's season.

According to Ron G. Baldwin, Wildlife Management Officer, 196 deer passed through the two weekend checkpoints at Eldorado and Northbrook. Although a definite count was not available, a high percentage of these were bucks. The largest buck recorded was a 4 1/2 year old with a ten-point set of antlers. There were 1,819 licenses issued this year, according to the Ministry.

Bears and moose have been reported in the District, with four moose shot in the Bancroft area.

With hunting season now closed south of No. 7 Highway, but continued all the way north of the highway, it is expected that the success percentage should rise somewhat by the weekend.

CAMPBELLFORD HOLSTEIN COW IS CHAMPION

"She has completed the largest butterfat record ever reported from any Canadian cow of any breed in any class," said John Powell, Chief of Extension for the Holstein-Friesian Assoc. of Canada, as friends, neighbours and leaders of the dairy world gathered on November 9th at the Ingholm Farm of Clare Ingram and his sons, Harold and Bruce, Campbellford, Ontario, to pay tribute to their Holstein cow, Ingholm Rag Apple President.

"Amongst the millions of records completed since Record of Performance testing of dairy cattle was established in 1905 by the Canada Department of Agriculture, no cow has exceeded her butterfat production for either of the two testing periods, 305 days and 365 days," continued Mr. Powell. "Not only that but her body conformation is superb, she having been classified Excellent, a rating achieved by less than one purebred Holstein cow in a thousand."

Starting official test as a six-year-old, Ingholm Rag Apple President produced in 305 days a total of 29,934 lbs. milk containing 1308 lbs. fat and testing 4.37 percent butterfat. Continued on test for 365 days she gave 34,311 lbs. milk and 1556 lbs. fat testing 4.53 percent. She was milked twice daily. Her milk production stands third for 305 days and record for 365 days for all time in Canada.

With the average mature cow rated at 100 percent, the new champion's 305 day Breed Class Average production is officially rated at 251 percent for milk and 299 percent for fat. Her fat production is thus virtually three times that of the average purebred Holstein.

The Roll Call was answered by, "Name a member of the United Nations." There were 12 members and three guests present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and business attended to. The report of the C.N.I.E. canvassers showed over $126.00 had been collected.

Mrs. Arthur Holmes gave a report of the 46 annual area convention held in Peterborough in October.

Get Your Snowmobile Ready For Winter Action

Snowmobile time is here again, and now is the time to start getting that snowmobile in shape for the coming season. Here's what the service engineers recommend you do before you take that snowmobile out this year:

First, flush out the fuel tank, clean it thoroughly and then refill with a fresh mixture of gasoline and oil. Regular gasoline works best in snowmobile engines.

Second, run the engine at low speed until it has warmed up. Then, if necessary, adjust the carburetor. A slightly rich mixture is best and will provide both longer engine life and the best possible performance under varying operating conditions. An exceptionally lean mix, they say, can cause engine damage. If the engine runs rough after carburetor adjustments are made, the plug may be dirty and need replacement. If the plug is replaced, check the spark gap and be sure plugs are tightened properly.

Third, lubricate all wear points but be careful not to spill grease or oil on belts or the track. The lubricants can damage these parts.

Fourth, check the tension on drive track and drive chain and adjust if necessary. Also check track alignment and adjust this, too, if it is required.

Fifth, check the ski alignment. Skis should be parallel or slightly toed-in. Do all that — it won't take long — and your machine will be ready for another season of fun and excitement on the trail. (Prepared by Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd.)

MULTI-YEAR PLATES ON SALE DEC. 1st

The first issue of multi-year passenger vehicle licence plates will go on sale at 285 licence issuing offices throughout Ontario on Friday, December 1. Transportation and Communications Minister Gordon Cartwright announced this week. Expiry date for current licence plates is February 28, 1973.

The new style plates are expected to last five years and will have three letters and three numerals in blue on a white background with the name 'Ontario' above and the slogan 'Keep It Beautiful' below.

Registration fees will continue to be payable on a yearly basis, with the annual cost for an 8-cylinder vehicle being $40; a 6-cylinder vehicle $32; and $23 for a 4-cylinder car.

The format of the passenger motor vehicle permit has been modified to accommodate a replica of the vinyl validation sticker that will be affixed to the lower right-hand corner of the licence plate in subsequent years.

Multi-year plates are the result of extensive testing and evaluation of various paint and metal combinations that culminated in the production of a vehicle licence that is 25 per cent stronger and colored with improved longer lasting enamels.

AWARDS AT KEMPTVILLE COLLEGE

A local youth, Edward Hunt of Tweed, was one of five students to receive an Atkinson Charitable bursary when scholarships, bursaries and awards valued at over $4,000 were presented at the Academic and Royal Assembly held recently at the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

The Principal, Dr. Ford Stinson, told an audience of more than two hundred that the large number of awards was "the result of the generosity of the many friends of the College."

An innovation this year was the staff milking competition won by the Principal, Dr. Ford Stinson. Dr. Stinson was presented with a milking pail.

Measles-Rubella Vaccine Program Instituted

A measles-rubella vaccination program for the protection of children between the ages of one year through the first year of school entry has been instituted by the Ontario Ministry of Health.

In announcing the program, Health Minister Richard T. Potter, M.D., said that all areas of the province have been stocked with vaccine. All practising physicians have been notified of sources of vaccine supplies and have received a recommended immunization schedule.

"It is important that all such children receive their vaccination as soon as possible after their first birthday to ensure protection during the entire preschool and school period. This calls for a co-operative effort by parents and practising physicians."

The combined vaccine will be free. It will provide protection against both measles (red) and rubella (German measles) in a single injection. Infants under the age of 12 months should not be given the vaccine because the presence of maternal antibodies may interfere with the immunizing response.

Complications often develop in a child who contracts measles. These include pneumonia, convulsions, middle ear infection and inflammation of the brain.

Rubella vaccination of young children will also reduce the risk of infection among women in child-bearing years who have not had the disease. Rubella contracted by a woman during the early months of pregnancy can result in the birth of a baby with serious congenital abnormalities. The earlier in pregnancy the fetus is infected, the more severe the handicaps may be.

INVITATIONAL SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Mr. E. English invited the Madoc Township School to an Invitational Soccer Tournament on Friday, November 16th, 1972. The tournament was held at Queen Victoria School, Belleville, Ontario. There were six schools invited: Queen Victoria A and B teams, Hillcrest, Bayview, Queen Elizabeth and Madoc Township.

The coach of the Township team was Mr. Taylor and he must have been a very good one because the Township team won every game. The scores were: 1st game 6-1, 2nd game 5-1, 3rd game 5-1, 4th game 2-0, and 5th game 7-5. The members of the Township team were G. Bellemore, R. Brooks, G. Chapman, D. Gaines, B. Gough, D. Harris, E. Houghton, S. McEwen, D. Morrison, L. Parks, D. Peters, M. Reid, R. Rivers, C. Robinson, D. Russel, B. Simpson, R. Walters, W. Walters and S. White.

Stewart McEwen and Ricky Walters each scored 8 goals. Bradley Simpson 5, Garth Chapman 1, Craig Robinson 1, and Darwin Russel 1.

Our defence was generally good but at times was loose. We had 25 goals for and only had 8 scored against us.

At the end of the tournament everyone went into the auditorium and congratulated the Madoc Township School and all the other schools who came in 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th. We also thanked the referees.

We thought the teams were very good and that the sportsmanship couldn't be better. We would also like to have more invitational tournaments in the future.

NEWSPAPER REVEALS OLD-TIME PRICES

Mrs. Gavin Adams brought into this office recently a copy of the Toronto Daily Star dated Saturday, March 5th, 1932. The paper, which was in remarkably good condition, was printed with a two-color heading in black and red ink. Also, on the front page was an interesting square printed in red and headed: "Stop the Press News", wherein special news bulletins appeared, including, "New York — The Canadian dollar today jumped to the highest mark since last fall. Early bids were at 90 cents in United States funds, a gain of 3/4 of one per cent over the previous close."

Another report shows residents in the city were enjoying fair and mild weather that week, but some light snow or rain was expected the next day, followed by northwest winds and colder temperatures.

The advertisements show a distinct difference in the selling price of household furnishings. For example, a lounge arm chair was on sale at $16.45; a four-piece bedroom suite, $63.50; 6-piece breakfast suite, $19.95; and a three-piece chest-erfield suite, as low as $44. Clothing was advertised at what, now appears to be very reasonable prices. For instance, girls dresses, $1.95 each; Men's shirts, $1.59; Men's work shirts, $1.00 each.

This sketch was submitted by Mrs. Brenda Hudson of Madoc. It was taken from a photograph in the Tweedsmuir history by permission of the Women's Institute. The picture was taken in Madoc Village at the corner of Kent's Store and Dafee's Store in 1868, the same year these buildings were erected. Fire destroyed this street on May 2nd, 1873.

LOOKING BACK ...

50 YEARS AGO

November 29, 1922

The play and concert given in the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening by the Epworth League, was enjoyed by the large crowd who attended. The first number was a piano duet given by Mrs. Ashley and Miss Bronson. The second, a chorus given by the League girls giving a series of hits on the different Leaguers. Next came a humorous reading by Miss Burnside, given in her own happy style. The Japanese song and drill given by ten girls in costume made a very pleasing number. The very excellent violin selection by Mr. Scrutton, accompanied by Mrs. Ashley, was the closing of the first part of the programme. The play, entitled "The teeth of the gift horse," which was put on by Miss Eileen Higgs, Mrs. Ashley, Miss Bronson, Miss G. Wilson, W. Burditt and R. McCoy, was a credit to those young people who had worked so hard to make it a success. The League wishes to thank those who so ably supported them in this endeavour to raise funds for forward movement. The proceeds for evening amounted to about $50.00.

The November meeting of Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. Smith on Friday, November 24th. Opening ode was sung. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. Roll call showed 25 present. Reports of shower, sewing-bee and social evening were received.

Proceeds of special evening, $19.60, expenditures, $6.15, balance to be used for benefit of fire sufferers. An appeal for fire sufferers in our own locality was heard and on motion it was decided that each Institute member donate a sealer of fruit or pickles, same to be packed at Mrs. Wellman's Thursday afternoon, Nov. 30th. It was decided to hold a Domestic Science Course some time this winter. On motion it was also decided to invite Springbrook and Ivanhoe branches of Institute to Dec. meeting, to be held in Town Hall, Dec. 15th. All members asked to assist with refreshments. Program to consist of community singing, report of Provincial convention by our delegate, also speeches by presidents. The meeting was closed with singing the National Anthem, after which a social half-hour was spent.

Shirley Thompson, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Thompson, Madoc, was instantly killed and the mother suffered concussion and possible skull fracture as a result of a two-car collision Thursday evening last four miles north of Belleville on the Foxboro highway. Suffering minor injuries were the child's father, Patrick Thompson, driver of the one vehicle, and two passengers, Sidney Turcott and son, Lawrence, age three and one-half years, all of whom suffered facial cuts. They were attended at the scene by Dr. Austin Walters. Driver of the second vehicle, William G. Nicholson, commercial traveller of Port Elgin, escaped injury. The right side of the Thompson car on which Mrs. Thompson and baby were riding received the full force of the impact, the cars separated and coming to rest several yards apart following the accident. Mrs. Thompson was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital by the Quinte Ambulance. Provincial Police of Belleville investigated the accident.

Tangible appreciation of the "highly efficient manner" in which he conducted his office during 1948 was shown Reeve George West of Madoc Village, Warden of Hastings County, by members of Hastings County Council at a complimentary banquet tendered them, and guests by the county's chief official and Mrs. West Friday night. Warden and Mrs. West were the recipients of a beautiful silver tray and a handsome mantel clock, the gifts of the county governing body. Upwards of 130 guests representing a cross-section of the county were present at the banquet held in the Madoc Armouries. A battery of speakers paid sterling tribute to Warden West and the work he and the county council had done during the year.

Chimes will be installed in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in the near future. The system includes three amplifiers which will broadcast a mile or more, a microphone on the pulpit which will broadcast the organ music or even special addresses. The Young Women's Club have undertaken the work of financing the installation and are holding a dinner in the church on November 17th to help raise funds.

Charles Gordonier and Garry Colden, from the Springbrook district near Campbellford, have set a record in ridding the farming communities in that area of the wolf menace. They have captured 15 wolves in the past six weeks and in the past week have been in Campbellford at least twice with the trunk of their car loaded with dead wolves, on which they gained the bounty.

Wedding — The marriage of Margaret Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Boothby, Belleville, to Russell Moore, Coe Hill, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Moore, Coe Hill, was performed with quiet solemnity in the parsonage of the Tabernacle United Church in Belleville, Wednesday evening, November 3, Rev. F. R. Harback officiated.

Relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Baumhour, on Saturday evening to celebrate with them on the occasion of their forty-third wedding anniversary at the same time were Mr. Baumhour's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Green, of Northbrook, who were married in 1954. Both couples received many lovely gifts and best wishes for the future. Friends were present from Belleville, Bancroft, Brampton, Northbrook and Eldorado. A dainty lunch was served and the happy occasion brought to a close with all singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

The second week of the deer hunt, according to statistics gathered at check points, was more successful than the first week. At Kaladar over the weekend of November 16th and 17th, 387 hunters were checked, having a total of 136 deer. A hunter's success rate of 35.1 per cent, an increase of over 7 per cent from the previous week. At Millbridge over the same period of time, 491 hunters were checked having a total of 135 deer, a success rate of 27.5 per cent and an increase of over 9 per cent from the previous week. The hunter's success is down approximately 4 per cent from the 1956 deer kill. A total of 598 deer passed through the check points which were maintained over the two weekends for a total of 58 hours. The number of bucks recorded were 292, as compared to 306 does. This total includes all age classes. Officials were able to age 556 deer and from this number, 187 were fawns which is better than 33 per cent. That is a good sign for future hunts.

Rev. Marshall W. Heslip, pastor of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Sunday afternoon following an illness of one month. He was born at Northern Ireland 70 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Heslip and has been a resident of Madoc for the past ten years. Mr. Heslip was educated at Peterborough.

O.P.P. REPORT

Over the past week, seven accidents caused an estimated $2,925.00 in damages.

As the result of the combined efforts of Peterborough, Campbellford, Bancroft, and Madoc O.P.P. officers, search warrants were executed in the Madoc and Bancroft detachment areas resulting in the recovery of an estimated, $2,500.00 in stolen property.

There were two disturbances reported in Marmora Village. In the first instance the person from whom the complaint originated requested that no charges be laid and in the second instance one male subject was charged with "Assault causing Bodily Harm".

Two impaired drivers were charged: one male and one female.

Four cottages in the area were maliciously damaged to the extent of $2,025.00. Two of the four were entered and all furniture, appliances, light fixtures and electronic equipment were destroyed.

Three bench warrants were executed when charged persons failed to appear in court after they were summoned to do so.

One hundred and thirty-seven dollars worth of property was stolen as the result of thefts ranging from the theft of 246 empty beer bottles to the theft of one 8-pound roast which was taken from an unattended vehicle. Thirty other general occurrences required police action; some examples are: three compassionate messages were delivered, one man charged driving while disqualified, four reports of lost property, two abandoned autos, traffic control, complaint about an erratic driver and other such occurrences.

Have you had the exhaust system of your car checked lately? With the cold weather of winter almost here one of the dangers to beware when driving is drowsiness due to carbon monoxide poisoning. If your car has a faulty muffler, a leaky manifold, or a bad exhaust pipe, don't postpone having it repaired. Drive with one window slightly open to help combat the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning. Get your exhaust system checked now! And remember... a little fresh air in the car is good insurance to help keep you awake.

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources in the Tweed District are again collecting deer and moose hides for the Indian Handicraft Industry.

The purpose of this programme is to utilize hides that are otherwise wasted. These hides will be collected by the Ministry of Natural Resources Offices throughout the District, and will then be taken to a tannery to be processed and then distributed to the Indian families in Northern Ontario.

We are also interested in collecting the lower jaw of as many deer as possible. These jaws will be used for valuable management information.

In return for the hide and lower jaw, we are giving a "hand cooker."

When donating the deer hides and jaws, please be sure to include your name, address, sex of deer and location or township where the deer was killed.

CENTRE HASTINGS JUNIORS COSSA CHAMPS

The Junior Volleyball team of Centre Hastings Secondary School came away from Saturday's double round robin tournament in Cobourg with the COSSA championship.

The Centre Hastings boys won the first round robin five games straight with scores of 15-7 or under, defeating Quinte S.S. (Belleville), Curtis S.S. (Oshawa), Bowmanville, Crestwood (Peterborough) and Cobourg West. In the second round, Crestwood and Curtis took two games, giving Centre Hastings an 18-2 record and a tie with Crestwood. Centre Hastings beat out Crestwood of the Kawartha Division in two games straight, 15-7 and 15-8, to decide the championship.

Although this is only the second year Centre Hastings has fielded a junior volleyball team in the Bay of Quinte Division, Coach Carm Donato said, "We've got a good experienced team. Some of the players are from last year's team." (Centre Hastings finished fourth in COSSA in 1971.) He attributed their success to an "all-round good power offence, with exceptional spiking abilities by Don Black and Pat Fennell." "All of the players handle the ball with ease. We have a very tall team and this means a lot." Other members of the winning Centre Hastings team were: Fred Stewart, Jim Gray, Bart Bell, Robin Shannon, Jim O'Leary, Dave Wannamaker, Steve Smith, Larry Tryell, Dan Forestell, Danny Rombough, and Chuck Petty, with Ron Rhines as manager. Coach Donato is optimistic about next year. He says volleyball is becoming the dominant sport in the school.

FRIENDLY HINTS

CONTROLLING WORMS IN LIVESTOCK

Worms do considerable harm to a beef feeder or dairyman's enterprise. Probably much more than anyone fully realizes. We know that well over 50% of herds surveyed are infected by one of several kinds of worms.

The most common worms are lung worms and stomach worms, and each affects different parts of your animal's system. The lung worm creates blockage of air passages, and you'll see symptoms of coughing and emphysema. If the infection is heavy enough, you are apt to see some mortality result.

The stomach worms affect digestion. Some of the worms burrow into delicate stomach or intestinal tissues, which of course, cuts down on digestive efficiency. It affects the animal's ability to convert feed into meat, or milk.

Some of these stomach worms drain off blood, which in heavy infections could mean as much as 1/2 pint of blood loss per day. Loss of appetite, dehydration, sometimes swelling under the jaw, persistent diarrhea, are various symptoms of stomach worms or intestinal worms.

A major challenge facing the careful herd manager is to detect the presence of worms, before they get so bad that the clear-cut symptoms develop. Slight infections are not detectable. But it is safe to assume that because so many animals are infected, the pastures and barn yards used by the cattle will be heavily infested with egg and larvae. It is also wise to assume that routine worming is the best management decision.

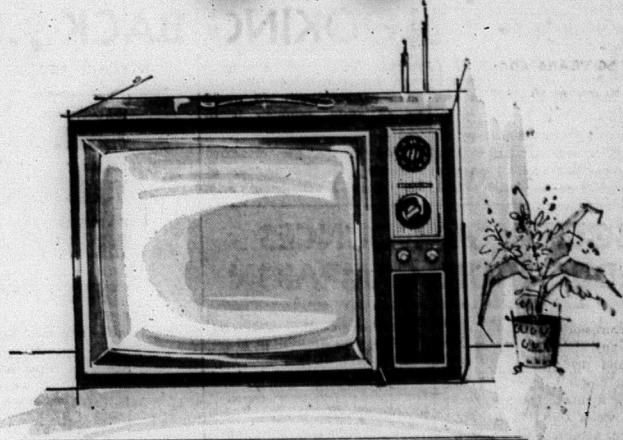

Some feeders, in the past, used to think that stomach worms could be "flushed out" of the cattle by feeding extra rations. But all this does is "feed" the worms and "flush" your profits into the gutter.

Use of a broad spectrum wormer, that won't stress cattle, or knock them off their feed, is an excellent approach.

Briefly, worm new feeders (according to manufacturers' directions) when the feeders arrive on the farm. Worm cattle, spring and fall, including dairy calves and heifers unless they are within a month of slaughter time. Worm milkers when they are dry.

Thiabendazole (Thibensole) and Tramisol are two such wormers that your co-op fieldman can help you use to good advantage.

BELL CANADA APPLIES FOR RATE INCREASE

Bell Canada this week filed two applications with the Canadian Transport Commission for higher telephone rates spread out over the next two years.

Basic residential telephone service, for instance, would go up five cents a month in 1973 and an additional 6 1/4 per cent in 1974.

Bell says that an increase in costs which are largely beyond its control will offset in great part the benefits stemming from the increased rates the Commission allowed it.

Earnings this year have shown improvement, the company says, partially as a result of the last increase it was granted; partially as a result of a generally improving business climate; and partially through its keeping expenses down and productivity up.

But there would be a sharp drop in earnings next year without a rate increase, impairing the company's credit and its ability to secure capital at reasonable terms, the company says.

The new rates would cover most aspects of Bell's business and would be applied in two stages.

General increases that would take effect next January include a five-cent-a-month increase for residence and hotel extensions, and a 1 1/2 per cent increase — with a five-cent minimum — for most other services. The charge for the initial period of all long distance calls within the territory Bell serves would go up two cents for customer-dialed calls, five cents for operator-handled, station-to-station calls, and 10 cents for person-to-person calls.

The company also proposes to increase most service charges 50 per cent in 1973 and another 33 1/3 per cent in 1974. This would put the present $11 charge for a residence installation up to $16.50 next year and to $22 in 1974.

Beginning January 1st, 1974, the basic residential areas such as Montreal and Toronto would go up 40 cents a month to $6.80 from $6.40. In smaller towns such as Arnprior and Sturgeon Falls in Ontario and Arundel and Trois-Pistoles in Québec, the increase would be 30 cents, to $4.85 from $4.55.

Smaller towns still, such as Drumbo and Riga, would be reclassified under a proposed plan to create a new minimum rate group, and their increase on a $4.00-a-month bill would be 45 cents, bringing it to $4.45.

Rate groups are classified according to the number of telephones a customer can reach without having to pay a long distance charge. Bell's new minimum rate group would be up to 5,000 telephones.

Other increases to take effect January 1st, 1974 would include five cents a month for Contemporary telephones and residence Touch-Tone service, five cents on residence and hotel extensions and one cent on each minute of overtime on all long distance calls.

Further changes proposed for 1974 include increasing the pay phone rate ten cents and initiating a 25 cent charge for some calls to directory assistance.

The pay-phone call would go up beginning in October 1974 to 20 cents from the dime that has been charged in many centres for as much as two decades.

A 25-cent charge would be initiated for calls to directory assistance for numbers listed in the caller's directory. Handicapped persons, such as the blind, would be exempt as would calls from hospital and hotel rooms, and pay phones.

Bell says more than 680,000 calls a day were made to directory assistance in 1971, and that at least 70 per cent, or a half million of the calls were for numbers listed in callers' directories. Cost of the service now is being borne by all customers.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

Mrs. Russell Lewis was hostess for the November meeting of the Missionary Society. The President, Mrs. Jack Bailey, extended a warm welcome to the twenty-one ladies present and read the call to worship entitled, "A New Song."

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Tom Deline. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Bailey and the hymn, "Be still my soul: the Lord is on thy side," was repeated in unison.

Roll Call was answered by a verse of scripture containing the word, "Promise." Encouraging reports were given by the various conveners. The programme committee is to meet on November 15th at the manse.

From the book, "Devotions and Dialogues for women," the chapter, "Serenity of the Soul" was chosen for this meeting. Four members served as a panel for the discussion of serenity. It was concluded from the dialogue that inner peace grows right along with spiritual development. It is something shared with God. It is a feeling for His presence, a dependence on Him, a faith in His Providence and Promises.

Mrs. E. Hawkes gave the devotional talk on this subject of serenity stressing the fact that true peace comes from being able to forget self. Some people have turned to God, selfishly seeking peace of mind rather than salvation; wanting to receive rather than give; desiring security rather than obedience.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Hawkes to close the meeting.

A delicious lunch was served and a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

SOCIETY ANNOUNCES EDUCATION CAMPAIGN

"Until some effective treatment is discovered, the pain and disability of arthritis will cause many people to try anything that holds out the slightest hope of relief."

This is the situation which faces The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society in its nationwide educational campaign.

"Arthritis sufferers." The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society emphasizes, "are particularly vulnerable to false claims."

The "do-it-yourself" craze has caught on like wildfire and it is estimated that some 70 per cent of arthritis sufferers in Canada have fallen victims to some form of quackery at some time in their lives. Says the Society, "self-medication is not a good idea. It is particularly dangerous when used to treat arthritis and the other rheumatic diseases."

Copper bracelets, lemon juice, garlic, buttercup paste, iodine lozenges, and mud — all these and many other things have been advanced as cures for arthritis, and are passionately recommended by their advocates. "There is no known cause of or cure for rheumatoid arthritis," a Society spokesman points out. "But it often goes into spontaneous remission, and patients are likely to attribute a dramatic abatement of their symptoms to whatever treatment they have recently received."

The Society urges all Canadians to be informed — to know the facts about arthritis. "It is," says the Society, "important in helping people to help themselves." Arthritis control — the immediate goal.

The "Process" in Processed Cheese

Processed and "natural" (or ripened) cheeses are very similar in composition and nutritive value.

To produce processed cheese, a ripened cheese with a well developed flavor (such as sharp Cheddar) is blended with an unripened cheese, mixed with water and a salt which acts as an emulsifier. Result: a softer cheese that slices easily, melts readily and blends smoothly when heated for sauce.

It takes about 10 pounds of milk to make one pound of cheese, hence natural and processed cheeses are good sources of protein, calcium and vitamin A. Both are good substitutes for meat as sources of protein.

WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. JAMES EDWARD HENN

HENN - STEPHENS
Father J. McGillivray performed the recent wedding ceremony in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel when Norma Jean Stephens exchanged vows with James Edward Henn. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stephens, of R.R. 5, Madoc and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Doris Henn, Belleville and the late Mr. Edward Henn. The organist, Miss Dorothy Grant rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Robert Burke.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a long white satin gown which featured a high neckline, an empire waist, long sleeves and a full cathedral train caught at the waist. Her lace headpiece of mother-of-pearl design was attached to a tiered elbow length veil. The bride carried a cascade of red sweetheart roses intermingled with ivy and baby's breath.

Mrs. Patricia Stevens as the matron of honor was attired in a coral polyester crepe blouse and a long dark brown velvet skirt. She carried a cluster of coral sweetheart roses with fern and baby's breath attached to a white prayer book.

The bridesmaids, Miss Lynne Henn and Miss Stephanie Stephens were attired identically to the matron of honor except in floral crepe blouses.

Each carried a cluster of talisman roses with fern and baby's breath on white prayer books.

Richard Stevens was best man and guests were ushered by Robert Rogers and Mike Scott.

For the reception held at the Belleville Shrine Club, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a dark green velvet suit accented with a silver braid trim, silver accessories and a corsage of green tinted mums.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a matching coat and dress ensemble of grey and maroon crimple. Her outfit was complemented by black accessories and a corsage of maroon tinted mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride donned a mauve pant suit accented by mauve accessories and a mauve tinted corsage.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Henn will reside at 185 Mary St., Apt. 5, Belleville.

The organizing committee promises there will be much, much more than this! Door prizes will be awarded and a kiddies carnival will be held. Also on the entertainment list, the C.J.B.Q. disc jockies are to meet the school staff in a basketball game, music will be provided for both teenage and adult dancing. Even babysitters will be on hand to give the parents a chance to enjoy themselves to the utmost.

An admission of $1.00 will be charged for adults only. All children under 12 will be admitted free.

The proceeds from the evening will be divided equally for community projects in the three villages of Marmora, Madoc and Tweed.

SEVEN PERSONS INJURED IN CRASH

A Madoc woman and six other persons were taken to Belleville General Hospital last Friday afternoon with injuries sustained in an accident involving three vehicles at Ivanhoe that afternoon.

Taken to hospital by two City Ambulances were 44-year-old Joyce Norma Varley of Madoc, the lone occupant of one car, and the driver of the second car, John Charles Matheson, 25, of Tweed, and five passengers, his wife, Linda Matheson, 24, their one-year-old daughter, Tammy, and Patrick Langevin, 34, James Langevin, 10, and David Rashotte, 9. The injured were treated for cuts, bruises, fractures and concussions.

The mishap occurred at approximately 5:30 p.m. 0.9 miles north of the junction of Concessions 6 and 7 at Ivanhoe. Apparently, Mrs. Varley, who was northbound at the time, was forced onto the east-shoul-

Smith Falls Men Injured In Crash

Two Smiths Falls men remain in Belleville General Hospital this morning, both now listed in fair condition, as a result of a single-car mishap on Highway No. 7 last night, four miles east of the Madoc O.P.P. Detachment office.

As yet, it is not known which of the two was driving the eastbound car, but he apparently lost control on the curve at the east end of the long swamp, took out 21 guard posts, and went into the south ditch. The car came to rest when it struck an evergreen tree. The 1966 Plymouth was a total wreck.

The two men, Robert C. Wilkinson, 39, of McCann Street and Charles Frieman Hart, 54, of 14 Daniel Street, were listed in critical condition last night, but were reported slightly improved today. However, Mr. Wilkinson remains under intensive care. Constable C. L. Horton was the investigating officer.

Contract Let For Senior Citizen Units

The Honourable Ron Basford, Minister of State for Urban Affairs announced at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, November 14th, federal approval of an Ontario Housing Corporation loan application for $222,719.00 to assist in the construction of 20 Senior Citizen Units in the Village of Tweed. The twenty-one bedroom units will be located in a two-storey apartment building which will be constructed at McCann Street and River Road by Maurice H. Rollins Construction Ltd. of Belleville. The total cost of the development including land will be $247,466.00.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED ON MEDICAL CENTRE

Barring a major set back in the weather, construction will begin this week on the Centre Hastings Medical Centre.

The decision to go ahead was taken Monday when local contractors and suppliers met with the directors of the Medical Centre. Faced with "much higher than expected" publicly called tenders, the Directors invited approximately twenty area men to meet with them to see if anything could be done to get construction underway this year.

Nearly all the invitations were accepted and even though some could not become involved immediately, much advice and assistance was offered. A team was selected to prepare the site, which involves surveying, leveling and staking, ground grading and excavating. This will be followed by the construction of the footing and block laying for the walls. If all goes well enclosing should be completed before the extreme cold weather hits and inside work can be carried out during the winter months.

Attending the dinner meeting besides the construction men were the Kiwanis Club of Madoc and Sgt. Dowe of the Madoc Detachment O.P.P.

The Directors wish to publicly thank the following for their interest, co-operation and encouragement: Ken Gordon, Joe Ashe, Gordon Holmes, Ken Adams, Fred Bailey, Earl Warrman, Cyril Shaw, Dale Benson, Ross Pigden, Tony Willemssen, Brian Danford, Walter Danford, Gib Bailey, Glen Nickle, and Elmer Embury.

On behalf of the Medical Centre Association, Mrs. Vera Hill accepts cheque from Sgt. R. N. Dowe.

MADOC DETACHMENT O.P.P. COMMENDED FOR BENEFIT

From all directions this week, highly favourable comments are being heard about the benefit dance held last weekend by the officers and their wives of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police.

Not only is the Centre Hastings Medical Centre financially richer as a result of this event, but the social life of the community wealthier by far to have such a fine group of people come forward and take an active part in the affairs of the community.

On Saturday, November 18th, approximately 300 people were entertained in the Kiwanis Centre, Madoc, with prize winning contests, dancing and a buffet lunch. Music with selections to suit young and old was provided by the Knightsmead of Tweed with door prizes and spot dance prizes being donated by the Merchants of the Village. A delicious cold plate lunch was prepared and served by the wives of the officers. A refreshment bar was available to add to the enjoyment of all.

The community's congratulations go to Sgt. R. N. Dowe, and the entire staff of the Detachment and their hard-working wives for their efficient organizing, and to all the men and women who attended for a most successful benefit.

Perhaps the community's highest compliment was paid when it was suggested that it become an annual event.

Whether or not this suggestion is followed remains to be seen, but those who attended this year's Ontario Provincial Police benefit really enjoyed themselves.

The Centre Hastings Medical Centre is richer by $1,120 as a result of this single event.

Sgt. Dowe, in presenting a cheque to the directors at this week's meeting, spoke of some of the events leading up to the benefit night itself — humorously of how he was first contacted by Reeve T. C. Barton who suggested their participation — subsequently of the doubts and concerns that he and his staff felt concerning the Medical Centre itself, but finally their satisfaction in becoming involved in a rewarding and successful benefit night.

Sgt. Dowe, on behalf of all of the officers, expressed his appreciation to the community for their support.

1973 WINTER CARNIVAL PLANS GET UNDERWAY

It is hard to believe, but a year has passed, and once again, it's time to think about this year's Winter Carnival. The committee executive began planning for the event at a meeting last night. This year's carnival will be held on February 16, 17 and 18th.

It was with regret that the Committee learned that the Skating Club would not be having a Carpa Capers ice show this year. This event has been a very successful favourite.

Wayne Hagerman was selected as Chairman of the Committee.

A general meeting is scheduled to be held next Wednesday evening, November 29, at the Madoc Public School. All representatives from local organizations taking part in this event are urged to attend this important meeting.

RATEPAYERS CHALLENGE CANDIDATES AT MEETING

Incumbent Reeve Russell Sills of Huntingdon Township was put on a hot seat Monday night when "the largest crowd ever at that type of meeting" met at the Township hall in Ivanhoe for a ratepayers meeting with the candidates of the upcoming municipal election.

Every position on council is being contested and all candidates were present except Alex Watson, who is running for Councillor. Also present were Carman Gibson and Kenneth Little, candidates for Public School Trustees, Ward 4, comprising the Townships of Huntingdon, Hungerford and Tyendinaga, and the Villages of Tweed and Deseronto.

Acting as Chairman, Mr. Barton Haggerty called on the candidates to introduce themselves and to present their issues.

Reeve Sills expressed pleasure at seeing so many present for the meeting and then reviewed some of the accomplishments of the Council over the past year, including a statement of revenue and expenditure. The statement showed a considerable surplus at the end of October. Mr. Sills reported on the two Conservation Authorities with which the Township is involved and mentioned County Council work of the year. Mr. Sills expressed his appreciation for the opportunity of serving the ratepayers in the past and solicited the influence and support at the polls of those present and concluded with a catchy slogan, "progress is a practice not a promise — So vote for experience you can trust."

Contesting the Reeveship also is present Deputy Reeve George Wood, who felt that after six years service, (four as Councillor and the past two as Deputy Reeve), it is time to go one of two ways — either up or out. Adding to what Mr. Sills had reported, Mr. Woods reviewed some of the work of the past year and reported that a tender in the amount of $47,000 has been accepted for the new garage to be built. He explained that the tenders were considerably higher than the expected $35,000 range. Not directly accusing any member of the present council, Mr. Woods said that in the past he has seen much unfinished business hover over Council for years. He has seen delegations come to council to present their concerns and leave without receiving a definite satisfactory reply. He feels these delegations deserve a straight yes or no answer. Mr. Woods also felt that in all fairness to the ratepayers, Council meetings should be held on a regular basis, contrary to the past year's meetings. In summing up, Mr. Woods called on everyone for their support at the polls.

Seeking the post of Deputy Reeve, after five years experience on Council, Harold Thompson said he felt as Mr. Woods, that it is either time to move up or go out. His point of contention was that he is fighting for fire protection for the Township, saying, "I'm always on fire!"

Mr. Haggerty called a present councillor, John Witte, to the front. John is leaving the area on a job transfer and will be concluding his term at the end of this year. He expressed his pleasure in working for the Township in the past. He likes to see an election because, to him, being appointed by acclamation is like "coming in through the back door." He summed up the work on waste disposal and spoke favourably about the garbage collection.

Although there are still a few problems to be ironed out regarding garbage collection, John expressed confidence in the Council's ability to find a solution.

Opposing Harold Thompson for the post as Deputy Reeve, Miss Hazel Mitchell, a tool designer and die maker of R.R. 2, Stirling, introduced herself as a newcomer to the municipality. Although she felt at a disadvantage because she is not very well known here, with dynamic spirit she promised "to do what she is asked to do." She said that any problem brought to her attention would be taken to the council meetings and she would follow it through until the ratepayer is satisfied. Miss Mitchell, or "Mitch" as she is known around the Moira Lake area, has had a cottage on the lake since 1966. She described herself as "honest" and as a "doer". Mitch said she felt at a disadvantage running on a ticket against all-time candidates.

"Because I'm a woman doesn't mean I'm not capable of filling the position." Emphatically, she stated that she is not satisfied with the garbage pick-up. To her, the most important need in the Township is more industry. Each of the candidates seeking seats on council gave a brief resume of their views and intentions.

Mr. Art Miller, who has lived in the Township for five years, is married and has five grown-up children. He has had wide and varied experience in municipal politics, having been councillor, deputy reeve and reeve in Ameliasburg Township in Prince Edward County. He spoke briefly on the advantages of Township Planning, in which he has been deeply involved across the Bay. Mr. Miller is in favour of garbage collection, especially in considering the low cost of $7,500 per year, as quoted by John Witte. He is particularly concerned over the environment and taxation.

Mr. Ted Pollock, who has worked on the roadside weed and brush spraying for a number of years for the Township, expressed interest in the controversy over the garbage collection. Many members of his family are involved in municipal politics. He is willing to work for the ratepayers.

Glenn Franks who was nominated six years ago, but didn't qualify, outlined his reasons for trying for the position. He offered full support of the Reeve, whoever is elected and expressed regrets that the Township has to lose one of these good men, either Russell or George, during the election.

As a ratepayer himself, Glenn has been well satisfied with the Council in the past, but he feels it is time that Council takes a serious look at the lake and all the unfinished roads in the area. He feels that all the discontent there and the complaints of the ratepayers are justified. Glenn would like to see a systematic plan set up for the Township on a neutral basis.

In seeking the support of the ratepayers, Ted Fleming said that, if elected, he would try to see that more attention be paid to the roads first, before new buildings are built. He is also concerned about fire protection.

The two contesting the position as public school trustee presented their opinions. Carman Gibson, Warden of the County this year, spoke on the issues concerning the Board at the present time and reminded the people that if they want better services they are going to have to pay higher taxes for them. He is a former school board member. The Warden feels he has made his contribution on a municipal level and is stepping down to give others a chance to have the honours.

Ken Little expressed a keen interest in the young people, saying he has always been active in community work. He and his wife both enjoy volunteer work and like to keep involved. He has served in the Hastings County School Area Board and has considerable experience in this field.

Taking precedence over all other issues during the question-answer period were garbage collection and the snowplowing of private lanes.

Mr. Robert B. Wood of R.R. 4, Stirling, confronted all the candidates on their opinion about the snowplowing of private lanes. After they had expressed their opinions, (most of whom opposed the idea with good reasons), Mr. Wood then read a letter from the Provincial Member of Parliament, Mr. Clarke T. Rollins, which he had received in January on the subject. Mr. Rollins had written that the choice of using the equipment for this type of work is strictly at the Township level; and that it is his understanding that it is permissible to take the equipment off Township property. Mr. Wood then proceeded to read a piece quoting prices charged for such a service in Marmora and Lake Township, showing a maximum of $8.00 for any one lane. A rousing discussion on the subject ensued until chairman Haggerty found it necessary to intervene so that others might have an opportunity to present their questions.

Several ratepayers stressed an insecure feeling about the Township not having its own fire fighting equipment. It was apparent that the people have a strong desire for a volunteer fire brigade for their municipality. The candidates were generally in agreement. The insurance premium rates were discussed, but it was stated that only those within a five-mile radius of the fire hall are eligible for a 45% discount.

Miss Mitchell was further queried about her opinion on the need of industry in the area. It was pointed out by other candidates when they

SINGLE ME OUT

By BILL SMILEY

Occasionally, I succumb to a great disenchantment with life. At those times I feel that some days are bad, and all the others are better.

Yesterday was one of the better ones. It began at 2 a.m., which I think anyone will agree is a bad time to start a day. I had the Gallipoli disease.

It's called this for two reasons. First, it was rampant among the poor sods trying to capture Gallipoli in World War I, when the Australians lost more men to dysentery than they did to Turks.

Second, it keeps you galloping, back and forth, forth and back, until there's something like a tunnel between your bedroom and your bathroom.

Eventually, you are so weak it's an effort to pick up a Kleenex and have a honk.

Enough to make a bad day, you'd say. Oh, no. It had to be better. That's the way the gods work. When they single you out for a going-over, they're not going to be happy with a mere case of dire rear.

After waiting for months for me to organize some storm window work, my wife had finally got cracking, which she should have done in the first place, and hired two young men to take off and wash and put back the storm windows. Four of them had been removed last spring and sat in the patio all summer, gathering twigs and dead flies. The others had never come off. The windows that is.

Looking through them was like having a bad case of myopia. You could tell there was light coming through, but everything else was just a sort of blur.

Anyway, she had hired two of the most unlikely window-washers in town, a couple of former students of mine. Personally, though I like the pair, I wouldn't hire them to dig a grave for a cat.

However, as they weren't on welfare or unemployment insurance at the time, they leaped at the opportunity. After they'd checked on the going rate and agreed it was adequate. Barely.

Not that they were immature or anything. Oh, no. They'd done their Grand Tour of Europe. One had spent six weeks in jail in the Netherlands. They'd had four or five jobs since, in such productive industries as leatherwork and making health food.

Well, they arrive to do the windows the day I am almost on hands and knees with the Gallipoli. Bright and early. Eleven a.m.

All I want to do is crawl into bed and feel forsaken. No chance. A brisk ringing of the doorbell. "Well, here we are," cheerily. A groan from me.

They had a long ladder borrowed from a long-suffering father. Nothing else. I guess they were going to pry the windows off and wash them with the ladder. My wife mustered cloths and cleaning fluid. I dug up a hammer and screwdriver, which took me many minutes and many oaths.

They set to work, and I nearly had a nervous breakdown. I covered in the living-room. They're right there at the windows, grinning cheerfully, smearing the dirt around on the panes. They need a step-ladder. Haul it up from the basement with the last possible ounce of strength.

Retreat to the bedroom. There's one of them up there, perched on the ladder, shouting at me to whack the storm windows from the inside. I whack and shudder, waiting, cringing, for the sound of a six-foot storm window shattering into tiny bits. Or the sound of the ladder crashing through the inside window. Or the thud of a body hitting the turf. Wonder whether I have insurance to cover, first, the glass, second, the body. No idea.

This went on for a couple of hours. Shouts, imprecations, poundings. I was in a state of collapse and the old lady wasn't much better. I was wishing I'd gone to school, even on a stretcher.

But I guess the gods, besides tormenting people like me, look after those who need looking after. Neither of them fell, even as much as eight feet. They finished the job. And they were there, very business-like, for the cheque. They also had some terse remarks about the inadequacy of our cleaning materials and we felt properly guilty.

Try it some day when you have the Gallipoli and a couple of nitwits doing your storm windows. A badder day.

But it wasn't over. I finally got to bed, whimpering with relief. My wife came in and said she's been talking to our daughter, who has a great rip-off idea. She's going to Cuba, and has a plan. She'll write a couple of columns for me, free. All I have to do is pay her for them. Badder. However, silver lining department. By staying at home, I had missed a three-and-a-quarter hour staff meeting, which is an abomination on the face of the earth.

So, all in all, maybe not such a bad day, after all.

MOSTLY ABOUT SOMETHING (but not necessarily)

(By BEV. BROWNING)

Madoc should go down on record as the village with the highest sidewalks in the world. Would you believe that after you park on the north west side of Durham Street (business section) that you have to take an elevator to get up to the sidewalk? Would you believe I saw a guy take a step ladder out of his trunk so he could get up to the sidewalk? Well how about a seven year old wearing mountain climbing gear?

Did you ever try to open the passenger's door in this same area? Solution — raise the road or lower the sidewalk or install elevators.

Shopping for a Christmas gift for your husband, wife, rich relative or friend? How about a battery powered AM radio for your bathroom wall. It's very decorative and comes equipped with a roller at the base to hold your tissue paper. If you have the outdoor type you would probably have to order the catalogue model. What they won't think of next.

As if some families don't have enough trouble in the mornings as it is. Next thing you know they will be selling miniature coloured televisions for the shower, electric shavers that play the Barber of Seville and tissue paper with a serial written on it.

So for the person who has everything...

Is nothing sacred anymore? I read recently where the librarian of Seneca College attacked our nursery rhymes as depicting women as being stupid and fearful. She claims she has read seven hundred nursery rhymes and found they all had the characteristics mentioned above. (She must have overlooked Simple Simon).

So Little Muffet was frightened by a spider — big deal. When I was a kid I was more interested in the spider. The librarian also quoted Old Mother Hubbard — come now — I felt sorry for the dog. And as for the Little Old Lady Who Lived In A Shoe — it's a good thing somebody was around to look after the children.

So Mrs. Cheda who ever you are, there must be more important things to do than waste your time tearing nursery rhymes apart. Stop making a mountain out of a molehill.

For you people in sunny Florida and California you will be pleased to know we received our first snowfall Sunday night. Temperatures are ranging around the low twenties at night and mid thirties in the daytime (now do you feel better).

Tip of The Hat Award: This week goes to Peter White. Peter, lately has been helping Peter Ramsay's Bantams practice on the weekends. It's nice to see some of our teenagers using their spare time constructively.

So Peter, a tip of the hat. I hope the boys you are helping appreciate the help you are giving them and will gain some hockey knowledge from you.

Wished I'd Said That: "Do-da-um-ba-ma-goo-dad." (Translated means get up off that couch and get me a drink of milk Dad.)

So until next week remember, "If you think sad you will be sad."

As it says, "Mostly About Something, But Not Necessarily."

MADOC BRANCH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. Frida Forestell was hostess for the November meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute held last Friday afternoon. Eighteen members responded to the Roll Call by naming a past minister of agriculture or a former Agricultural Representative for Hastings County. Amongst the Federal Ministers named were the Hon. Ivan Hamilton, the Hon. Bud Olson and the Hon. James Gardiner, while the Hon. W. Goodfellow was named as Provincial Minister. Several "Ag. Reps." were listed: Oliver Dalrymple, Lynn Faire, Ralph Banbury, Sydney MacDonald and Douglas Tipper.

Several members spoke of the enjoyment they had in attending the Tea sponsored by the 4-H Club last Saturday and praised the girls both for their projects and for being gracious hostesses.

The first day of the Area Convention held recently in Peterborough was ably reported by Miss Loreen Connor. Miss Connor summarized the responses of several Branches to the Roll Call "Vision with Action." There was special reference to New Canadians and what we can do for them. One speaker emphasized that now there are no nations; we are individuals. More members are wanted in Asian and African countries. At present there are eighty thousand members in the W.I. We are warned that we should get used to the Metric System, which is coming into effect in 1975. As a starter, it was noted that there are 500 grams in one pound. In order to widen our friendship and our interest, Ontario Institutes have been "twinning" with Newfoundland Institutes, and members are urged to get a pen pal and begin an interesting correspondence and exchange of ideas.

The November motto was "Nature spreads her carpet and gives man his inspiration." The Convener, Mrs. W. Forestell noted that man has been a garden maker since the beginning of Time. The Bible begins with a garden. The crucifixion and resurrection took place in a garden. The hoe, in a knowing hand, is mightier than the pen. Flowers bring an element of refinement into the home, she concluded.

Mrs. Forestell then considered two topics in Agriculture — Corn and Clubs! Corn is replacing hay and grain. New varieties with greater yield and earlier maturity have been developed. Grain corn ripens on the stalks and 'se' has to stand longer in the fields. It was with considerable pride that Mrs. Forestell stated that the record crop for 1971 of 124.5 bushels per acre was raised on a neighbouring farm just north of Madoc.

In the Club "Department" (shall we say?) are Calf, Swine and Homemaking Clubs for our juniors. The members learn how to conduct a meeting properly. They must keep a record book, whether they are caring for a calf or a pig or learning how to entertain or to decorate a bedroom. And they must compete against clubs in Eastern Ontario at the Ottawa Fall Exhibition.

In reporting on Consumer Affairs, Mrs. Albert Bailey gave several useful hints on latex paints and on the best methods of painting. Among the 21 varieties of hand dishwashing detergents tested in the Canadian Consumer Laboratories, Lux, Dove, Palmolive and Ivory were found to wash the greatest quantity of dishes. There are now new Beef Grades in Canada based on price, tenderness, flavour and juiciness. They are Canada A1, A2, B1 and B2, while A, B and C denote the maturity class of the animal, A being the youngest.

Mrs. C. Farrow expressed appreciation to Mrs. Forestell as Convener and Hostess and to her assistants, Mrs. E. LeSage and Mrs. R. Lewis. The meeting closed with a pleasant social half-hour over the tea cups.

A LONE WOLF'S HOWL

I have seen strange things amongst the hills.
I have heard of strange things done.
There is one odd tale I'll retell to you Believe it if you will.
It was deathly cold one wintry night,
As I plodded through the snow.
That I was lost 'twas plain to see.
I wandered here and there.
Eventually I spotted a cabin.
I made myself at home.
But I got the wierdest feeling when,
Somewhere a lone wolf howled:
At two in the morning there came a sound,
'Twas someone at the door.
A man and a wolf came slowly in,
And then that wolf, he howled.
The man was old and very peculiar.
He said, "You can't stay here".
So I left then, a little grudgingly,
And danged if that wolf didn't howl.
For one reason or another, I don't know why,
I returned to the cabin that night.
Lord, what a shock when I opened the door.
And that cursed wolf howled.
I looked at the man and looked again,
He'd changed a great deal I'd say.
Oddly enough he resembled a wolf,
And at that they both gave a howl.
'Twas out of there that I made tracks,
Of that you can be sure.
I followed the moon and the northern star,
And soon I was safely home.
Think what you will of my tale,
But think you not that I'm crazy.
For on a clear night when all is still,
I can hear two lone wolves howl.

SPOTTING SICK ANIMALS

Around the average farm, the man who keeps tabs on the animals is the herdsman, who may be the boss himself. It isn't such a difficult job where there is only a relatively few animals involved. But in large beef feedlots, or swine operations, or dairy cattle herds, finding a sick animal is tougher, because there are so many to check.

Young livestock are most susceptible to sickness. When they get sick, it happens quickly and they show it. As experienced men know, a young calf can look healthy at breakfast time and be half dead by the middle of the day, depending on the reason for the sickness. It needs immediate treatment. This simply means that the farm with a lot of young stuff in the pens or feedlot needs checking two or three times a day.

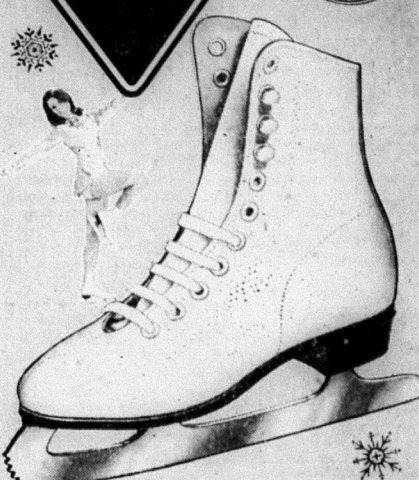

Feedlot diseases tend to follow patterns. If you have just brought cattle into your feedlot, shipping fever and respiratory problems are threats, followed by stomach or intestinal upsets, as the two tend to go together. Pneumonia may be deep seated and not show many symptoms until it's too late to prevent severe lung damage.

Similarly, diseases hit swine and dairy cattle and symptoms need to be spotted early. Look for animals that are down, or stiff and slow moving. Breathing may be faster than usual. The animal may have stopped eating or drinking which is difficult to know in the case of feedlot operations.

The condition of the nose in cattle, or skin color in some swine breeds, may give you a clue about high body temperatures. Eye and nose discharging, diarrhea, gauntness or bloat are all symptoms to be alert for.

Good animal health is money in the bank for your farm operations. We're not veterinarians at your Co-op, but we can help you keep your livestock healthy through prevention of disease, and some of the animal health products you need to control sickness in livestock.

IN MEMORIAM

DIAMOND — In loving memory of a dear father, James E. Diamond who passed away November 20th, 1971.

Precious forever are memories of you,

But in our hearts you are always there.

PLANT

In memory of my Brother, James A. Plant of Cooper, Ontario who passed away on November 25th, 1965. I find no bliss in sorrow,
For my dear, departed kin,
Much better, through hope, to-morrow
I take pattern, after him
Should the world, lament, or rail,
His deeds will surely prevail.
Such that are valid unique
Shared by the man, in the street.

Now I from that exemplar will add,
The blessings from heaven I've had
But, much more, could be said
For our Saviour, who bled
And, the giver of life, to the dead.
Ever remembered by brother John.

LIKE A MIGHTY ARMY

A new dramatic film, "Like A Mighty Army", the down-to-earth true story of a man in tune with his times, will be shown at Trinity United Church on Sunday, November 26th at 7:30 p.m. The social revolution among young people today is frightening in many of its aspects. Even the church is being seriously questioned as to its existence and activity. Instead of responding with bewilderment and fear, a handful of people in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida led by their dynamic young minister, Rev. James Kennedy, committed themselves to the principle of providing life-changing answers for the people of their community.

In nine short years the Coral Ridge Church has become one of the fastest growing congregations in the world, growing from 17 to more than 2,000 members and needing 3

"The Old Reliable" hand pump, property of the Alert Fire Co. No. 1, was operated by firefighters George Wright, C. Wallbridge, George Rollins and S. Burkitt. It was in frequent use to fight many fires in Madoc from 1881 to 1901. This sketching, by Mrs. B. S. Hudson, is from a photograph in the Tweedsmuir History; with permission of the Madoc Women's Institute.

LOOKING BACK ...

50 YEARS AGO
December 6, 1922

The question of Rural Schools is claiming considerable attention at the present time. This means the grouping of several school sections adjacent to one another into a consolidated school district, the erection of a suitable school at a central point easily accessible to all the united sections and the conveyance by vans of the children who do not live within easy walking distance of the school. Even two sections uniting in this way from a consolidated school section and thus participate in the very generous grants provided by the Department of Education for the building, equipment and maintenance of these schools. It is hoped that by these means the country child will have the same educational advantages to fit him for the work of life as the city child possesses, and receives them without leaving home among attractive surroundings that will make him love his work and his country life. In 1921 there were 1020 schools, in Ontario with an average attendance of ten pupils or less. This surely shows an unjustifiable expenditure for the results obtained. The grants specified in the regulations of consolidated schools are, a fixed grant of $3000, a building grant of 30% of cost and 30% of cost of transportation, and a fixed grant of $100, for each teacher employed. These are in addition to the grants received on the basis of an ordinary rural school.

On Thursday last Messrs. Keene and Thos. Wood received by express a very valuable pair of silver foxes. Mr. Ruthven, representing the Ruthven-Brett Silver Black Fox Co. Ltd., of Alliston, accompanied the shipment to insure safe delivery and see them safely housed in their new quarters at Mr. Keene's farm. No fox food was available, as the shipment arrived rather sooner than expected, but a couple of pigeons were secured from the barn which Reynard and his wife enjoyed to a remarkable degree. The Ruthven-Brett Co. sent an experienced ranch builder to help with the work of construction and when Mr. Ruthven made his tour of inspection, he said it was one of the finest ranches he had seen and pronounced the location ideal for the production of fur and high-grade breeding stock. The Ruthven-Brett Co. had in 1915 only 6 pairs of Seton black foxes. Now they have 130 high-grade silver foxes on their ranch. All their stock is registered with the Dominion Live Stock records at Ottawa. They have the finest and best equipped ranch in the province. Mr. Ruthven advised Mr. Keene to keep the animals secluded as much as possible after January 1st and allow no visitors near them till June 1st when the little foxes come out. At 30 days they grow very quickly and are very playful and interesting. The presence of strangers at this time will not be detrimental to the foxes.

Born — On Thursday, November 30th, 1922, to Mr. and Mrs. Zara Bristol, a son.

24 YEARS AGO
November 18, 1948

Dr. Colin Dafoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dafoe, Madoc, has just received word from the Edinburgh University, Edinburgh, Scotland, which he attended until his return to Canada recently, that he had successfully passed his examinations and is now a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh (F.R.C.S. (E)).

Mr. Leonard Trotter of Madoc Township, on Saturday transported 14 head of cattle and a colt to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, where he will exhibit his stock with the best in the Dominion. Mr. Chas. Rush, of Stoco, is also showing some stock at the Fair.

Mr. John Finnegan, who has been cheesemaker at Silver Leaf Cheese Factory this year, has added to the long list of honours he has won during the years he has made cheese. He was the only maker in Madoc and Marmora District scoring 100 per cent, all of his cheese scoring No. 1. Only a very few in all Central Ontario reached that standard. He also made a fine record at Madoc Fair winning 3 first prizes, 1 second and 1 fourth in an exhibit of over 60 cheese.

The grand old couple of Huntingdon Township, Mr. and Mrs. James McGuire, celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary on Thursday, November 11th, at their farm home where Mr. McGuire was born 94 years ago. Mrs. McGuire was the former Allison Stevenson and was born in Sydney, Australia, 80 years ago, coming to Canada with her parents at an early age.

Weddings — Married quietly in Toronto, on Friday, October 22nd, 1948, Kathleen N. Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Kelly and the late Mr. Kelly, of Galesburg, Ontario, to Russell A. Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Foster, of Whitby, Ontario.

Fifth Avenue Holiness Movement Church, Ottawa, decorated with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, was the setting for the marriage of Mabel Maria, only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Tomlinson, of Stittsville, Ont., and John Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Irwin, on Saturday, October 16th, at 11:30 a.m.

Births — In Madoc Village, on Wednesday, November 10th, 1948, to Mr. and Mrs. Emerold Embury, a daughter.

In Marmora Township, on Friday, November 12th, 1948, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bird, a son, Robert Niles.

In Marmora Township, on Wednesday, November 17th, 1948, to Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson, a son.

15 YEARS AGO
November 28, 1957

Arthur Herrington, age 34, of Springbrook, was instantly killed Sunday night when the car he was driving went off the road on No. 14 Highway north of Bonarlaw and struck a tree. A passenger in the car, James Wood, 18, also of Springbrook, escaped with little more than a shaking up as the car left the road, struck a tree, then rolled over scattering debris down the ditch. The accident occurred in front of the Bonarlaw public school, a short distance north of the village. Mr. Herrington is survived by his wife Neta.

Mr. Pearl Oliver, 49, of Madoc, was fatally injured when shortly before midnight Monday night, their car left the highway east of Belleville, plowed through a ditch and rolled over. In Belleville General Hospital suffering from injuries are Clarence Tobin, 44, of Madoc, owner of the car and Betty Chalmers, 26, of Yarker, believed to have been the driver. A fourth occupant of the car, Albert Moore, 41, of Madoc, escaped with a shaking up. Provincial police said the east bound car left the highway on a curve near the intersection of the Point Anne lane and plowed through the ditch before overturning. Mrs. Oliver and Mr. Tobin were pinned beneath the car, while the other two occupants were free of the vehicle when police arrived. The injured were taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's ambulance.

Announcement was made during the week of the winners of the Carter Scholarships for the County of Hastings. At the top of the list and in 1st place was Douglas Thompson who led last year's Graduating Class of Madoc High School with first class honours in two subjects. Three Carter scholarships are awarded in each county for first, second and third place for students attending a university, the amounts being $100, $60 and $40. The second scholarship was won by Vera Coombs, of Stirling, and the third by Richard Trownc, of Belleville Collegiate Institute. Previously Douglas had been awarded an Atkinson Bursary of $400 and a McLean Rural Bursary of $250. Heartiest congratulations are due him again on the winning of this scholarship.

Married — At St. John's Anglican Church, Ottawa, following their June engagement, on Saturday, October 26th, 1957, by the Reverend Mr. William Robinson, Mary Gladys, daughter of the late Magistrate and Mrs. John Lionel Lloyd, Northbrook, Ontario, to John Robert, son of Mr. John Marius Johnson and the late Mrs. Johnson, of Montreal, Que. They will reside in Northbrook.

TO THE ELECTORS OF HUNTINGDON TOWNSHIP

I have qualified as a candidate for the 1973 Huntingdon Council and I ask your support at the Polls on December 4th. Some items that I consider important are:

- Property Tax
Hold tax line while supplying essential services. Another voice in our fight for amendments to the Education Tax Law on property. One suggestion is to relieve our Senior Citizens of the Education Tax.
- Moir Lake
A survey must be taken to determine a future course in correcting the problem of dead end and branch roads in one of the largest growth areas in Huntingdon Township.
- Garbage Pickup
Garbage left overnight should be kept in a barrel or suitable container to prevent pollution.

MINOR SPORTS REPORT

Superb goal-tending by Gary Eaton and goals by Ronnie Smith, Brian Smith and Peter White gave the Madoc Juveniles a 3-1 win over Marmora last Thursday night. The Madoc Juveniles, a combination of Juvenile and Midget players gave an excellent, spirited effort in winning their season's opener.

The teams played through a scoreless first period. Madoc led 1-0 after the second stanza and outscored Marmora 2-1 in the final frame. Don Barrows, banged in a rebound midway through the third period to spoil Eaton's bid for a shutout.

Madoc's scoring summary: Ronnie Smith (Jordan Elliott and Brian Smith); Brian Smith (Carl Pigden); Peter White (Jordan Elliott and Ronnie Smith).

Madoc Pee-Wees opened their season at home last Thursday night and were downed 6-3 by Wellington. The teams were scoreless after the first. Wellington outscored Madoc 4-2 in the second period and 2-1 in the final stanza.

Glenn Brown tallied twice for Madoc and picked up an assist on Lori Kirkwood's goal. The local squad played well enough for their first outing but lack finishing off their plays around the opposition's net.

Madoc Novice dropped an 8-1 decision to Bancroft last Friday night in Madoc. Brian Willemsen from Jim Patrick and Paul Mason scored Madoc's lone goal.

In all fairness to the local boys it must be pointed out that this team is still in the organizing stage and sufficient practice time should round out this squad into a competitive team.

In Frankford Monday night, Madoc dropped their opener to Frankford 6-1. Frankford led 2-1 after the first period, led 3-1 after the second and scored 3 goals in the final period. Joe Dowe fired in Madoc's only tally.

O.P.P. REPORT

Since last Friday, there was five accidents in which five injuries and $6,250.00 damages occurred. In one accident alone there were four injured persons and $5,500.00 property damages. On Friday at 2:12 a.m. a truck struck a deer on 160.7 Hwy. and killed it.

Two disturbances in Marmora and one in Madoc were reported and one male person was charged in each instance.

One family dispute which was reported resulted in the husband being charged with "Assault".

$180.00 damage resulted from four malicious damage complaints in which 2 windows were broken, one railing off a building was destroyed and a tire was slashed.

A break, enter and theft in the village of Madoc resulted in the loss of $5,090.00 worth of rifles. Also in the village was one shoplifting report.

One male subject was charged with "Carrying a concealed weapon" and will appear in Provincial Court (Criminal Division) to answer to the charge.

During this last week of hunting season there was one report of a deer being stolen and one report of jack lighting deer.

On November 12th at 3:00 a.m. a complaint was received that a person who had been hunting around Steenburg Lake had not returned home. It was found that he had been in the woods, his flashlight had given out and he stayed in the woods until the next morning when he was able to see enough to get back to the camp.

Parents! The next time you take the kids out in the family car... think about this. What would happen to them if you had a collision, or had to make a sudden stop? Would they smash into the windshield, dashboards, or some other place in the car? Chances are they would unless they're properly secured in an approved child's safety seat... or wearing seat belts. So, before you turn the key, make sure all your family is properly "belted in".

ELDORADO U.C.W. ELECTS EXECUTIVE

The annual meeting of the Eldorado U.C.W. was held on Thursday, November 2nd, in the church at Eldorado.

Eighteen members were present and listened to the reports from standing committees and from the Regional Rally. Delegates who attended the rally were Helen Johnson, Lois Blackburn, Audrey Chambers and Mary Blackburn. These ladies participated in the worship service at the rally.

Jean Blackburn conducted the worship service. With the theme being, "Count your blessings," she opened the service with the hymn, "Count Your Blessings" and closed with the poem, "My Life Is But A Weaving." She conducted a very moving worship service.

The programme was on Africa and present was Mrs. Thelma Judges, home on leave from Nigeria.

Mrs. Judges gave a very interesting talk on Africa revealing much about Africa and its customs.

She stated the people there eat mostly rice, potatoes, yams and mais and have two meals a day. Although they grow all types of fruit, they will not eat fruit unless they can steal it. Coconuts are plentiful but are used as coconuts, rather than as a food.

Everyone enjoyed this brief visit to Africa and many questions were raised.

Dora Palmer conducted the election of officers, with the following being elected: Past President, Isabella Shaw; President, Mary Blackburn; 1st Vice-President, Audrey Chambers; 2nd Vice-President, Dora Palmer; Secretary, Lois Blackburn; Assistant Secretary, Dora Palmer; Treasurer, Blanche Sandford; Pianist, Marjorie Carman; Representative to Manse, Audrey Chambers; Archivist, Alma Blackburn; Representative to Board, Isabella Shaw; Board of Stewards, Winnie Ketcheson; Stewardship

Convenors, Blanche Sandford, Alma Blackburn; Auditors, Evelyn Boyle, Dora Palmer; Press and Publicity, Isabella Shaw; Programme, Marguerite Blackburn, Edith Boyle, June Walker, Blanche Sandford; Social Functions, Audrey Chambers, Alma Sine, Blanche Sandford; Supply, Helen Johnson, Mary McCann; Community Friendship & Visiting, Jane Franks, June Walker, Alma Sine; Christian Education & Missions, Audrey Chambers; Finance, Blanche Sandford, Minnie Moorcroft, Audrey Chambers, Winnie Ketcheson; Nomination Committee, Edith Boyle and Alma Moorcroft.

Good nutritional value can be obtained for money spent on whole grain cereals such as cracked wheat and rolled oats.

Most refined cereals, which include farina and most ready-to-eat cereals, are enriched. Before buying cereals, carefully check labels for food value, weight and cost. Remember: the more a cereal is processed, the more it costs.

White bread enriched with thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and iron has about the same nutritive value as whole wheat bread. Nearly all white bread made in Canada is enriched, and if this is not noted on the label, question the bakery or store.

WORKSHOP HELD AT C.H.S.S.

On Tuesday, November 7, 1972, a workshop was held at Centre Hastings Secondary School. This workshop dealt with field trips in the local area and brought together a group of people from local businesses, teachers from all the local schools and several people from the Administration of the Hastings County Board of Education.

A luncheon was served to the guests who were at Centre Hastings school and a conducted tour of the school was given by several senior students. Mr. Beevor, the principal at Centre Hastings Secondary School welcomed the guests to the school, applauding and encouraging the involvement of community people in educational activities.

As an introduction, the film "Someday" was used to show different types of experiences. A list of the suggested problem areas encountered in operating field trips was used as a guide line. Discussion groups were formed with the business people and resource people meeting to-

SENIOR CITIZENS REPORT

by Mary Ann Holmes

Fifty-eight members signed the attendance book at the last regular meeting of the Madoc and District Senior Citizen's Club No. 473, which was held at the United Church basement on Wednesday, November 22. Also present, were 16 members of Hart's-Riggs' Women's Institute, with their President, Mrs. Pigden.

Club President, Mrs. Broadworth, spoke a word of welcome to all, with a special welcome to the guests. The meeting opened with the singing of "The more we get together". The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison and a moment's silence was observed in memory of a deceased member, Mr. Brownson. Mrs. Broadworth gave two short humorous readings. The members were happy to have Secretary Mrs. Johns back again after her illness, and also the treasurer, Mr. Johns. Mrs. Johns read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Plans were made for a bus trip to Belleville and Hastings Manor on Thursday, December 7th. Members were asked to be at the church at 10 a.m. Arrangements were also made for the Christmas party. A turkey dinner is to be held at noon on December 20th. The Club would like to thank Mr. Mel Caverly for the gift of new song sheets. Several members volunteered to act as babysitters at the benefit night at Centre Hastings Secondary School on December 1st. "Happy birthday" was sung for several members celebrating November birthdays.

The meeting was then given over to the Hart's-Riggs' ladies. The first portion of their program was in the form of their regular meeting and consisted of Roll call, motto, reports, topic, etc., given by the different members. A lively sing-song followed conducted by Mrs. Burnside, with Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Franks at the piano.

On behalf of the Senior Citizen's Club, Mrs. Johns thanked the ladies for so kindly coming and entertaining the Club and presented them with a plaque, which had been designed and made by president Mrs. Broadworth.

The singing of "The Queen" brought this portion of the meeting to a close. The lunch committee served a delicious lunch and a social half hour brought another pleasant afternoon to a close.

LOST WALLET RECOVERED

A Crookston woman was rewarded for her interest in recovering a man's wallet on the weekend.

Apparently, when eating breakfast on Sunday morning, Mrs. John Blair looked out the window, where she noticed the neighbour's dog chewing on an article.

Upon investigating, she found the article to be a man's wallet containing valuable papers and money.

Mrs. Blair phoned the owner, who subsequently came to pick up his wallet. He was very grateful to Mrs. Blair and presented her with a reward.

M.P. JACK ELLIS HELPS MEDICAL CENTRE

Mr. Jack Ellis, newly elected Member of Parliament for Hastings lost no time this past week in going to work for his constituents in the Madoc Centre Hastings Area. On two occasions he was in Madoc working with the Executive and Directors of the Centre Hastings Medical Centre on matters involving the Federal Government.

Earlier in the fall the Directors had applied for Registration as a charitable organization with the Income Tax Department. This meant that if the application was approved, official receipts could be issued to people making donations, which could be used for deduction for income tax purposes.

This week Mr. Ellis called Mrs. Vera Hill, Secretary, to inform her that necessary approval had been received and that official receipts could be issued for income tax purposes. Mr. Ellis drove to Madoc to discuss the details of the receipts with the President and Secretary. The Directors wish to inform the public that official receipts will be issued to all who have made donations to the Medical Centre as soon as they are prepared. Donations will of course continue to be necessary in 1973 but persons interested in making a donation in 1972 and receiving a receipt for income tax purposes in 1972 are urged to send their donation to the Medical Centre or leave it at the Bank in Madoc.

On Monday of this week Mr. Ellis was again in Madoc to meet the Directors, contractors and suppliers to lend his assistance and professional experience in completing an application for assistance under the Federal Government Local Initiatives Program. If successful, a grant will be received under the project which will be used to employ people who would otherwise be out of work because of the seasonal nature of their employment. Mr. Ellis's experience in the building industry was most useful to the Directors and they are appreciative of his assistance. Mr. Ellis, as our representative in Ottawa will be responsible for putting our applications through the various government departments.

The Directors remind the public that no guarantee of approval for this grant exists and that additional contributions are still necessary. Public response to date has been most encouraging and it is hoped that the various community groups will continue their support.

Squirrels in the attic and a cat at the door. Winter is on its way.

Yep, the squirrels, after about five years of exile, have managed to chew their way back into the attic, and are happily holding their regular family quarrels, wakes, weddings, bowling games and foot-races right over-head.

There probably aren't more than three or four hundred of them, to judge from the commotion.

And I'm helpless. Once they get in, you might as well wait until spring, when they emerge, and you can whack up some tin patches over their entries. I like to have black squirrels around the place. They're cute and picturesque hopping about on the lawn, picking up acorns in their dainty mitts and swivelling their little bright, beady eyes about as they chew.

But when you can't see them, and all you can do is hear, they're not so cute. The only picture of them I have in winter is of a couple of young buck squirrels gnawing away on the insulation covering my wiring, and chatting:

"Hey, Jack, this is better than the hole in the oak we lived in last winter. Right?"

"Right, George. It was kinda crowded with the eighty-four of us. And no central heating except our own. And down to an acorn a day by February. This is great. Lots of room for jogging to keep in shape. Lots of heat. And — mmmmm — I love that electrician's tape."

They reminded me of a rat who took over nocturnally in our room in prison camp barracks in the winter of '44-45.

One single, lousy rat had eighteen grown men in a state of nightly alarms and excursions.

At first, he'd wake somebody up with his gnawing. It was a cross between the sound of a chain saw and that of a snowmobile.

It was a welcome diversion, in the beginning. Sort of company, as though somebody cared. We named him Packy and talked about him rather fondly. For a while.

But then the nerves started to wear thin. There's something nerve-racking about a huge rat chomping away right in your ear, as it seemed.

It got to the point where nobody could go to sleep. We'd lie there, nerves strumming, waiting for Packy's evening performance to begin, each of us clutching a weapon, a boot or a bed-board.

The little devil seemed to know that he had us right where he wanted us. One night he'd start right after lights-out, and suddenly stop, just when we thought we'd located him.

Next night, he'd lie there chuckling — and we'd have sworn we could hear the chuckle — keeping us in suspense until it was almost unbearable. Then he'd give a couple of zrooms. And stop.

In a few minutes he'd start again, gnawing steadily and contemptuously. At last, somebody's nerves would break, there'd be the flare of a match and eighteen of us would leap out of our bunks, flailing at the spot we were sure he was in.

He never was, and it's a wonder somebody wasn't killed in the confusion. Because we all had a different spot.

Well, that's enough about squirrels and rats. But I know exactly why people use the term "squirrelly" as a synonym for being a bit mental.

The other manifestation of winter horrors I mentioned was our cat. In summer, she's lean and tawny, a tigress prowling her domain, stalking bumblebees and butterflies and birds. And she's outside, day and night. A lovely cat.

As soon as the wind comes out of the north, she turns into Mr. Hyde. She hangs on the screen door, howling pitifully. She has ruined three screen doors.

Does she want love, affection, admiration? No. She wants in. And once in, she wants grub. I have never kicked an animal, but when that pig of a cat lurches in like a hyena scenting a fresh kill and starts rubbing against my legs when I'm trying to rattle up some breakfast for myself, there's a grave temptation to turf her right into the kitchen sink. She's an unlovely cat. Fat and demanding, like some wives. And she thinks I'm her husband.

Apparently my un-love affair with cats has been mentioned before, because I have here a letter to the Listowel Banner from Rita Dodkin, 11. I'll quote parts.

"Cats are very useful in many different ways than 'putting them on a calendar'. They provide lots of company for old and lonely people who cannot have dogs because they can't give them the right exercise. They pamper and pet their cats because they enjoy it."

"I think this is far from turning them into 'bloated, contemptuous parasites' as Mr. Smiley said. They look so sweet when they sleep on your best chair. When they rub your legs I think they are trying to show love. Our cats always tried to show love. I used to have one but now I'm getting one next spring."

Rita, you might get one long before next spring.

AN APOLOGY

The best products of our time it seems always end up in agony.
The finest sensibilities seem to get convulsed with pain
And in our endless quest there sometimes seems
No way of existing without injuring our fellow creatures.
And when the best products turn to pain,
And the sensibilities to agony,
The very least one can do is say "I'm sorry."

TO THE ELECTORS OF HUNTINGDON TOWNSHIP

- Keep our tax rate at an attractive level.
- Equalized assessment must bring equal sharing of Township services to everyone.

ATTENTION HUNTINGDON ELECTORS

I, Hazel Mitchell, seeking election as your Deputy Reeve feel a few points should be reviewed of the Meeting held for Candidates at Municipal Hall.

- Although threatened with crucifixion, nothing could deter me from attending the Nomination as your Deputy Reeve. Yes, I have guts and will not be intimidated by anyone.
- Also, although the only woman on the ballot, I accept the challenge with relish and confidence. I promise to present all problems brought to my attention before the Council as promptly as possible. This represents all electors, farmers, residents of township and cottagers of Moira Lake.
- My concern for your lives, homes and children is genuine. It does not burn me up! Instead I took action and privately bought the large fire truck at Tweed, to put out your fires. I therefore offer the fire truck Viking at cost to the Huntingdon Council.
- Should the Council not accept my generous offer it poses no problem to myself, as I originally intended to buy it for my own use in business. However, I find your need of it is greater than my own. I am a person of action. I can't sit idly by and think about it when it concerns lives. You jeopardize your neighbour when their truck comes to your aid. The cost should be very low as your insurance rates should help to counterbalance rates. Ajax, Ontario has a foolproof system and could be used.
- Farmers, I am not a city slicker. I live in Dunbarton on an acre, with a large farm adjoining. I consider every farmer an engineer, because he has to be to look after his equipment, crops, and have his farm on a paying basis to support his family. Therefore, I can help you in many ways.
- My point about garbage collection is that all aspects should have been thoroughly thought out before the plan was put in use.
- Local garbage collector did not have proper opportunity to make bid. He employs people from Huntingdon and Madoc and is a ratepayer. He knows all areas and would have picked up garbage on Monday mornings. His equipment is adequate. I attended meetings to ask why and am still not satisfied with the answers received.
- Roads and weed spraying is lacking in many areas and should be corrected.
- Snow ploughing of private lanes is illegal by township and must be handled by private enterprise.
- Although offered Highway property in other areas, I still wish to purchase acreage on Highway 62 in Huntingdon and offer to serve you to the best of my ability, which matches anyone on the Council. Equal-rights is all I ask! I am a deer not a seat warmer, yet a good listener. I am concerned for the welfare of every resident and the lack of employment and entertainment in the community. I hope to change this.
- I don't like poor sportsmen, but will defend my right and yours to a fair hearing if elected as Deputy Reeve.
- Meetings attended by all ratepayers should be held preferably on Wednesday evenings, to allow citizens at business in daytime, to attend meetings and voice their views.

Your ballot marked X Hazel Mitchell as Deputy Reeve will be greatly appreciated. Thank You.

c/o Mr. O'Leary, R.R. No. 2, Stirling.

— that, we communicate with municipalities with closing waste disposal sites suggesting that consideration be given to seeding the areas to control weeds carried.

J. Watson — R. S. Morphy — that, the Pollution Control Advisory Board accept in principle the Pollution Control Project report undertaken by Miss Marlene Johnston and sponsored jointly by the Moira River

Patrick, C.J.B.Q., Ontario Intelligencer, All Authority Members and Advisory Board Members, District Forester, Air Management Branch, Waste Management Branch, Water Management Branch, Members of Parliament (Federal and Provincial), Local Libraries and all Ontario Conservation Authorities. carried.

Donnie Moore and Glenn Brown each picked up a hat trick and Sammy Bossio fired in a pair of goals, while singles went to Stewart McEwen and Tommy Sutton. McEwen also added three assists, while Moore and Brown each added a pair. Assists also went to Darrell Peters, Ian Dowe, Wayne Willemssen and Sammy Bossio.

4-H MEMBERS

have been actively involved in 4-H all their lives. Mrs. Sager last year completed 15 years leadership. Their children had all been enthusiastic 4-H members and have earned many awards during their years of 4-H work.

At intervals in the program, comments were given by some of the special award winners.

Miss Susan Ray of R.R. 2, Roslin, as valedictorian, quoted Shakespeare's famous line, "Parting is such sweet sorrow." Reviewing the highlights of her 4-H work, Susan commented that 4-H means three things, "communication, co-operation and education, all compiled into one experience." On behalf of all 4-H members, Susan expressed sincere gratitude to the many 4-H leaders, Mr. Douglas Tipper, Agri. Rep., Mr. T. Wayne Martin, Assoc. Agri. Rep., Mr. Ray Pender, Extension Assistant and the entire staff of the Agriculture office at Stirling and the parents for their support and encouragement, particularly mentioning her own mother and father.

A surprise presentation took place at the close of the program when Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pender were called to the stage and presented with a gift of farewell. Ray is leaving the Agriculture office at Stirling this year. The crowd gave Ray and Karen a standing ovation.

Ray expressed great surprise and appreciation at the presentation, and said he has enjoyed his five years in Hastings County working with the 4-H members, and their parents. He said he is confident the County has a great future, with so many fine young people.

PRIZE-WINNING MOBILE

The artistic talents of Sue Patterson, a student of the North Addington Education Centre, won her first prize in the Mobile Contest sponsored by the Frontenac County Library. The theme of the contest, which was open to students up to 13 years of age, was, "Books are Beautiful," and mobiles were made on a book the students had read recently. Sue had drawn the characters on this mobile free hand. She received a cash prize, and all other contestants were awarded consolation prizes for their efforts.

CANDIDATE WRITES REVIEW

The Review this week received a rather lengthy letter from Mr. Alex Watson, of Toronto, who is seeking election on the Huntingdon Township Council.

Lack of space prevents us from printing the letter in its entirety in this issue, but below is a brief summary on its content.

Mr. Watson expresses regrets that he was not present at the nomination meeting last week because he was unaware of the event. He explains that he was asked to run for councillor by the Moira Cottagers' Association for Clean Water, which feels that the serious pollution problems they are trying to solve need the support of the Twp. Council. They feel the best way to get this co-operation is to have a representative on the Council to explain the cottagers' problems. He went on to outline the condition of the lake reminding all that the lake is one of the largest sources of revenue and a valuable resource in the township.

Mr. Watson says he plans to become active in all the affairs of the municipality if elected. Having been born in Madoc, and belonging to a family that has camped on Moira Lake for 70 years, he is certainly familiar with the people of the area. Although his home is in Toronto, he spends much of his time at the lake and he promises to attend council meetings regularly and play a positive part in all its activities if elected.

Turkey and Chicken meat....
Maria Ann Green
Maria Ann Green
Director - Consumer Affairs Dept.
Poultry is a "meat" as are beef, lamb, veal, pork, etc. and is a source of top-quality protein. The fact that "meat" is usually listed as a separate item from poultry in food lists has caused confusion. Many people ask "Do turkey and chicken have the same quality of protein as meat?" The answer is yes.
Consumers can therefore serve poultry and stretch their food budgets, secure in the knowledge that it is delicious and nutritious.
For a free leaflet on buying, storing and cooking chicken, write Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa K1A 0C7, and ask for Publication 1317.
